SPANISH SHIP SHELLS ALL VESSELS

French Steamer Is Hit
By Bombs Dropped
From Airplane

BORDEAUX, France. (AP)—The radio station at Le Bouscat picked up a message tonight which said an unidentified warship was "bombarding all ships" passing the island of Quessant, in the Atlantic off Brest.

One report, picked up by the wireless station at Rochefort, said the ship was a Spanish government tanker.

FRENCH STEAMER
BOMBED BY PLANE
MARSEILLE, France. (AP)—The French coastal steamer Djebel Antar reported by radio she had been bombed by an airplane at 9 a. m. today, about 110 miles at sea off the Balearic Isles. The vessel, which said its position was approximately opposite Barcelona on the eastern coast of Spain, suffered only slight damage.

THOUSANDS OF YOUTHS MOBILIZED FOR DEFENSE
MADRID. (AP)—Between 10,000 and 12,000 newly mobilized youths tramped to their barracks at dawn today to join in defense of a capital threatened by a strong mechanized insurgent army from the northeast.

(Advices to the insurgent headquarters at Avila said Gen. Franco's Franco's "columns" had moved forward 12 miles along the road to Madrid and were within 17 miles of the provincial capital, Guadalajara, or 49 miles from Madrid.)

CAPTURED MUNITIONS SHIP TOWED TO PORT
ARCACHON, France. (AP)—The munitions transport Mar Cantabrico was reported today to have been saved from destruction and conveyed as a prize of war to an insurgent Spanish port, for the salvage of her $2,700,000 cargo of American-made munitions.

First reported sunk in the stormy Bay of Biscay Monday when she attempted to slip past the insurgent blockade, the mystery vessel was said to have been able to leave the scene of ambush under her own power with the shell-ignited blaze in her No. 2 hold under control.

STRIKE TIES UP FREIGHT WORK

CHICAGO. (AP)—Huge consignments of merchandise, much of it perishable, remained stationary today as 450 sit-down strikers paralyzed traffic along the 62-mile freight subway network below Chicago streets.

Activity in the labyrinthine passages, 33 feet below street surface, was suspended suddenly yesterday when 400 freight handlers and 500 motormen stopped trains, demanded higher wages and changes in working conditions, and protested alleged violations by the company of an agreement signed Dec. 1.

Nepotism Bill Wins Favor

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—Nepotism would be made illegal under provisions of a bill by Assemblyman Donnelly that was recommended today by its committee on governmental efficiency and economy.

The bill would prohibit the appointment by any elective officer of any person related to him, to the third degree removed, to any position or office under his control.

Stories of Stark Need Here Cause Action For Relief

By KENNETH ADAMS

Aroused school authorities launched a determined campaign today to secure from some source funds to feed half-starved school children in Santa Ana.

Astounded at the desperate plight of many tiny children in the elementary schools, officials of the school system are determined to find some means of filling the empty stomachs.

Cases of children starved so badly that they have fainted at their desks have been reported to Superintendent Frank A. Henderson. Others have gone for as long as three days with nothing to eat but beans—just beans!

A preliminary survey of three of the elementary schools revealed that there are at least 81 children in those three schools alone that are badly in need of nourishing food.

The matter of doing something about the situation was broached by Rolla R. Hays, member of the board of education at a meeting of the board this week. The seriousness of the situation had been called to his attention by a service club member, whose club had been helping some of the children.

The spectacle of half-starved children in Santa Ana schools failed to please members of the school board. So today they began to make a check with the SRA, WPA and county welfare department to see what can be done. Hands of the school board are tied in the situation. The law forbids the school board to spend money for food. But in the junior high schools and high schools, hungry children are given a little work to do in exchange for a good, solid meal once a day. There aren't any cafeterias in other schools, though.

In many cases, Superintendent Henderson said, it has been found that the teachers have been digging into their own purses and pockets to help feed hungry children. The program of the service clubs in furnishing milk for some of the children has helped, but apparently the problem is too big for the clubs alone to handle.

At Fremont school they manage to gather together enough food to feed hungry youngsters every noon.

But an incomplete report from Principal Marjorie Dudley at Franklin school showed a crying need for help. She reported on five families that need almost constant attention.

FOOD PRICES FITTS REWARD WON'T RISE PLAN ILLEGAL

Six per cent must be added to food prices here on March 15—but it won't effect the consumer.

At least that's the way it seemed today, as the Food and Grocers Bureau of Southern California announced results of its survey under the fair trade practices act.

Results of the survey, retail merchants were informed, show that six per cent must be added to the net cost of foods, exclusive of advertising allowances, to provide for operating cost.

Local retailers, however, retorted that the law always has required the operating cost to be added to the net cost, and this operating cost has never been less than 6 per cent.

In fact, they say, it often has gone as high as 10 per cent.

At any rate, the minimum has now been set. March 15 is the deadline. Grocers now will be required to add their 6 per cent. But it probably won't raise prices any to the consumer.

by the committee, would increase the membership of the state board of health from seven to eight, the new member to be a licensed dentist.

The committee on labor and capital reported to the assembly its approval of a bill to codify the labor laws. The action was taken by the committee to place the code on the assembly file immediately so other bills may be incorporated if it is accepted by the legislature.

COUNTY WILL DEMAND OIL ROYALTY

Supervisors Send West
To Sacramento On Tideland Bill

Supervisors today had taken up in earnest the fight to retain for Huntington Beach and the county some share of the proceeds of the Huntington Beach tideland oil pool.

Yesterday they adopted a resolution asking not less than 3 per cent of the royalties for each of the two local units. Huntington Beach would share in the production of its coast, and the county would share in any production on the entire county coast line.

Supervisor N. E. West, who has taken an active part in movements to open up the tideland pool to production under competitive bidding, was authorized to present a state senate hearing tomorrow at which various oil measures will be discussed.

Supervisors may be represented also on March 26 at the assembly hearing on the same measures.

Yesterday's resolution, prepared by West and offered by Supervisor Harry D. Riley, pointed out that state drilling would deprive the city and county of tax revenue from oil wells.

The percentage of royalty asked would be a fair amount to offset investments the city and county have made in streets, bridges, fire protection and other services, the resolution states.

TEXAS SHERIFF IS MURDERED

LONGVIEW, Tex. (AP)—Longview officers were advised early today that Sheriff J. A. Brown of Jefferson, 40 miles northeast of here, was shot and killed by an unidentified assailant who fired through a window of the sheriff's home.

The officer died from effects of a shotgun discharge which struck him in the neck shortly after midnight.

Longview police were called to aid in the case. The assailant, reported to have fled in an automobile after being trailed by bloodhounds a short distance.

Brown, a former oil field worker and amateur boxer, about 40 years old, was elected sheriff last year. Recently he had engaged in a wholesale roundup with state liquor board of control officers of stills in Marion county, and also engaged recently in a drive against overloaded trucks.

Youel in Favor Of Safety Drive

M. B. Youel, Santa Ana school board member, is heartily in favor of Santa Ana's police drive on careless drivers.

Last night one of those careless drivers crashed into Youel's brand new car while it was parked in front of his home at 530 East Seventeenth street, caromed off and continued on his way.

Youel reported the accident to police and then to his insurance company.

Werners Cleared Of All Charges

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Erwin P. Werner were cleared today of all charges resulting from an investigation of alleged liquor license bribery last year.

The couple was acquitted last Friday on charges of conspiracy to solicit a bribe from Miss Gertrude Davey, whose cafe liquor license was revoked. Yesterday counts alleging conspiracy to commit grand theft were dismissed on motion of the district attorney's office.

CIO NOW SET FOR TEXTILE, OIL FIGHTS

Lewis Group Steering
Toward a Union to Rival A. F. O. L.

(By the Associated Press)

The Committee for Industrial Organization steered a course today toward unionization of 2,500,000 workers in the textile and oil industries, and creation of a union structure to rival the American Federation of Labor.

The committee's move for autonomy came at a time when many of its affiliated groups were participating in strikes affecting more than 100,000 workers. One of them, the United Automobile Workers of America, was engaged in a struggle at Detroit with the Chrysler Motor corporation. It kept 55,000 Chrysler automotive workers idle.

B. E. Hutchinson, vice president of the Chrysler corporation, announced today that suit for an injunction to force sit-down strikers to vacate its several plants here had been filed against the automobile workers.

Conflict over the form of union organization—by craft or by industry—split the ranks of the A. F. of L. last year. Supporters of the latter form organized the C. I. O. under the aegis of John L. Lewis.

The C. I. O. decision to charter local and state central labor bodies led to the enlistment of 1,250,000 textile workers under C. I. O. auspices will start in New England in about two weeks. Start of the campaign to sign up 1,000,000 oil industry workers awaited perfection of organization procedure.

Textile labor leaders said the drive to enlist 1,250,000 textile workers under C. I. O. auspices will start in New England in about two weeks. Start of the campaign to sign up 1,000,000 oil industry workers awaited perfection of organization procedure.

SLAYER OF WIFE DIES IN PEN

SAN QUENTIN. (AP)—Samuel Whittaker, 62, Los Angeles organizer convicted of slaying his wife in a faked holdup, died in the prison hospital here today.

Guards recalled that at Whittaker's sensational trial the organizer arose after a jury convicted him and declared:

"I hope God may strike me dead before I get to my cell if I am guilty of this horrible crime."

Whittaker, who entered prison only last Saturday, had not yet been assigned to a cell.

For nearly 10 months his case has been on appeal in the higher courts.

Mrs. Whittaker was killed in what her husband told police was an attempted holdup around midnight of March 16, 1936.

Attempt Made To Burn School

STOCKTON. (AP)—Fire Chief Ralph Thompson said an attempt was made to burn down the El Dorado school annex by leaving lighted candles set in piles of tissue paper inside the building.

Five small blazes burned themselves out with slightly more than $50 damage, he estimated.

We Smile Today But Didn't Then— In 1933—March 10

Now here's a date you'll all recall—the time we saw our buildings fall. We spent the night outdoors in fright and talked about our awful plight.

We may smile now. We didn't then. It was that awful day—March 10.

Twice just four years ago today we looked and saw our buildings sway. Some lives were lost. The damage cost as much or more than our last frost.

We may smile now. We didn't then. It was that awful day—March 10.

That was the night we stayed awake because we feared an awful quake. But now we're happy once again. We're better off than we were then.

We don't beef now like we did then. We pray no quake today—March 10.

F. D. R. Continues Court Fight

'I'd Not Pack Court With Puppets,' Says F.D.R. in Radio Talk

WASHINGTON. (AP)—President Roosevelt put on record today a blunt declaration that he would not appoint to the supreme court "spineless puppets" who would decide specific cases as he wished.

"No president fit for his office would appoint, and no senate of honorable men fit for their office would confirm, that kind of appointments to the supreme court," he declared last night.

He asserted, however, in his second appeal for enactment of his judicial reorganization program that he would choose justices "who will act as justices and not as legislators."

"If that can be called 'packing the court,'" he said, "then I say that I and with me the vast majority of the American people favor doing just that thing—now."

Mr. Roosevelt spoke in a nationwide broadcast on the eve of senate hearings on his program.

His bill had two purposes, he said, speaking more rapidly than usual as he sat in a worn business suit:

"First, to make the administration of all federal justice speedier and, therefore, less costly; secondly, to bring to the decision of social and economic problems younger men who have had personal experience with modern facts and circumstances under which average men have to live and work."

After quoting criticisms of some supreme court majority opinions by dissenting justices, he said:

"The court in addition to the proper use of its judicial functions has improperly set itself up as a super-legislature."

"We have, therefore, reached the point as a nation where we must take action to save the constitution from the court and the court from itself."

"We want a supreme court which will do justice under the constitution—not over it. In our courts we want a government of laws and not of men."

In the last 50 years, he said, the balance of power between the three branches of government "has been tipped out of balance by the courts."

SALARY BOOST ELKS SELECT IS DOOMED OFFICERS

Santa Ana Elks lodge will have a new set of officers on March 23. Last night the lodge nominated new officers for the year, with Harold Brown being nominated for exalted ruler to succeed V. L. Motry.

Other officers nominated were William Garvin, esteemed leading knight; Ridley Smith, loyal knight; Ben Osterman, lecturing knight; E. R. Majors, secretary; Earl Abbey, treasurer; Donald Jerome, trustee for three-year term; Harold Brown, grand lodge delegate; Stanley Reinhaus, alternate grand lodge delegate.

Brown, as exalted ruler, will appoint three of the officers, the inner guard, chaplain and esquire. He also will name members of the committees to serve for the new year.

George Bradley was in charge of the inter-fraternity night program staged last night, which drew a crowd of close to 400. Speaker of the evening was Judge LeRoy Dawson of Los Angeles county, who discussed judicial affairs and world events in an informal and instructive talk.

Officers will be elected at the March 23 meeting, which also will be known as professional men's night, it was announced.

County salaries are still subject to a 15 per cent cut made during depression years. Supervisors are paid $212.50 per month, the district attorney $3800 per year, and the auditor $3400 per year.

A readjustment of county salaries, particularly in the lower brackets, is being planned by Supervisors West and John Mitchell, who said yesterday they will report in a month of six weeks.

STRONG PLEA VOICED BY CUMMINGS

Borah, O'Mahoney And
Norris Try to Break
Down Arguments

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Attorney General Cummings urged congress today to give President Roosevelt authority to put on the supreme court men of "fresh outlook" who will not infringe on congressional powers.

Appearing before a thronged judiciary committee hearing, the cabinet officer asked for adoption of the chief executive's court reorganization proposals in order to avoid "a tortured construction of the constitution."

Borah Asks Question
When he had finished speaking as the first administration witness on the legislation which would permit Mr. Roosevelt to court reorganization proposals in order to avoid "a tortured construction of the constitution."

"How are you going to know the men you appoint are going to take the liberal view?"

"We will have to take that chance,"

Cummings agreed that "if the new justices turned out to be ultra conservative, then we would be just where we are now."

Cites Taft's Belief
"The proposed increase in the number of justices," Cummings said, "is not for the purpose of enlarging the judiciary, none for the purpose of making it an adjunct of the executive."

Taking up a discussion of the "pillar" to inject "new blood into the supreme court," Cummings quoted former President Taft as saying in 1913 that "in a majority of cases when men come to be 70, they have lost vigor, their minds are not as active, their senses not as acute, and their willingness to undertake great labor is not so great as in younger men, and as we ought to have in judges who are to perform the enormous task which falls to the lot of supreme court justices."

"The constitution," the attorney general said, "was not intended to be a code of law but was meant to be a general framework within which each generation might work out its problems in orderly fashion."

Tells Court History
He quoted James M. Beck, former solicitor general, as saying the supreme court was "a continuous constitutional convention."

"Many people have been misled," Cummings said, "into believing that the constitution is at fault. We are facing not a constitutional but a judicial crisis."

Asserting that similar judicial crisis had been cured in the past, Cummings cited the Dred Scott decision, and the subsequent Civil War; the legal tender decisions, and the addition of two new justices by President Grant; and other court history.

"These events," he said, "led (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

SRA WILL QUIT FOOD SERVICE

Notified late yesterday that SRA definitely will discontinue distribution of government surplus foods and commodities on March 25, supervisors adopted a resolution asking Governor Frank P. Merriam, SRA officials, and state legislators to carry on the work.

If SRA does not resume the distribution, it would be possible for the county welfare department or some other agency to take it up, Jack Snow, welfare director, told the board.

He said that in February the local SRA office distributed food, clothing, and other articles to 702 county relief cases, and a total of 5000 pounds of food and 3500 articles to all classes of relief in the county.

The Music Comes Out Here!

All that a lot of us know about music is that you push the first valve down, as the songwriter says. SAILORS HELD FOR ATTACK ON GIRL

Says Attacker Told Her She Was 'Hard to Knock Out'

Three Long Beach sailors were held to answer to superior court today on charges of criminal assault against a 19-year-old waitress after a sensational preliminary hearing in Santa Ana justice court.

The defendants, Sam Leggio, H. A. Reynolds and John W. Walker, were charged with assaulting Frances Roosevelt of Long Beach last Feb. 20 while the four were returning from a trip to San Bernardino.

Find Filippino

Arthur M. Temples, machinist's mate, testified he and Leggio's wife went to Miss Roosevelt's apartment two days later to discuss the case. He said three Filipinos and Miss Roosevelt and her roommate were in the apartment, which Defense Counsel K. E. Bliese brought out was rented by one of the Filipinos. Miss Roosevelt said she lived there. Temples said he reported the Filipinos to police, who later arrested Miss Roosevelt's roommate, a Mary Lee Bond, and the Filipinos after Miss Roosevelt had left the apartment.

Miss Roosevelt admitted under cross-examination that she did not resist Leggio's advances, but said she was frightened.

Knocked Out

"He kept hitting me as we were driving home," she said. "He said I was the hardest girl to knock out he had ever had to knock out." Miss Roosevelt, red-haired former Santa Ana resident, testified that she jumped from the moving car on the Santa Ana canyon road several times, but each time was either persuaded or forced back into the automobile.

She admitted under cross examination that she had intended to stop at a friend's house to attempt to get bail for Miss Bond, who she said was in jail in Los Angeles at that time.

SEEK SHELTER FOR ANIMALS

The Orange County Humane society last night launched a drive for 1500 new members and a new shelter for animals in the Santa Ana area.

Work on the local chapter and plans for the new shelter were discussed by President Charles Ocan and Poundmaster Harold Pickering. Representatives of the Whittier society also discussed the work of the society there, and especially its educational program, being conducted through the city schools.

Reports on the membership drive, which is being taken largely as a method of underwriting plans for the new shelter, will be made at the next regular meeting of the group, to be held April 6, at Neal's Sporting Goods store.

Oppose Permit For Liquor Store

Protesting the establishment of a beer and liquor store at 311 Fruit street near Free Methodist church the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Santa yesterday signal a formal complaint to that effect and addressed it to the chief of police and the city council.

The document read as follows: "The Women's Christian Temperance Union, with an organization of more than 160 members, a few of whose names appear below, working for the best interests of the community along temperance lines, do hereby protest the leasing of the sagami building at 311 Fruit street for the distribution of beer and other liquors. This protest was officially passed by the organization at its regular meeting of March 9."

Girl Sabbed in Back By Youth

CANON CITY, Colo. (AP)—Daisy McIntyre, 17-year-old Canon City High school student, staggered into the home of friends late last night with a 15-inch, home-made dagger blade piercing her back. Physicians said, however, she escaped serious injury.

H. B. Moreland, night policeman, said the girl told him a boy followed her as she walked home from a high school entertainment and without warning drew the knife and plunged it into her back.

MORE ABOUT COURT

Mr. Hughes (Chief Justice Hughes) to "use the vivid observation that in three notable instances the court has suffered severely from self-inflicted wounds."

Notes Recent Rulings
Noting recent five-to-four and six-to-three decisions, Cummings told the committee:

"The constitution does not prescribe the abolition of sweatshops, or the elimination of the products of child labor from interstate commerce, or the use of the taxing power for the benefit of agriculture."

"The constitution says not a word on these subjects, but on each of them the deciding vote of one or two judges has nullified the will of congress, has over-ruled the approval of the President, has disregarded the power of argument of other justices of the court, and has run counter to the sentiment of the country."

Cummings said that the supreme court had twice invalidated minimum wage legislation, and once split evenly on the question, but that over the years the court has rendered "an actual majority of the judges of the supreme court declared such legislation constitutional."

"Law Is A Servant"
"This curious result," he added, "is the result of the fact that the controlling and conservative group has remained on the bench longer than the liberals who have come and gone."

"The federal system is sound at heart," Cummings said a moment later, "and will stand every kind of inquiry and discussion, but those who mistakenly seek to preserve its faults and strive to perpetuate them, are playing with fire dangerously. Let us not forget that the law is the servant and not the master of human need."

Miss Roosevelt's denial that "spineless puppets" would be appointed to the court, Cummings said "no man can pack the supreme court."

He said that process would require the concurrence of the President, 49 congressmen, and the appointing himself—51 eminent men in all—a preposterous suggestion.

Comments On Dictators
Cummings observed "it is curious to note that all the great presidents who have sought to do the most for the people have been charged with assumption of dictatorial powers and with cherishing evil ambitions and unconstitutional purposes."

"The ways of actual dictators and the manner in which they come into power," he added, "make it clearly evident that the courts alone cannot resist their advance."

Replying to contentions that the situation should be solved by constitutional amendment, Cummings said:

"This there are definite answers.

Three Answers
"First: No amendment is required because the proposal is clearly constitutional. What is really sought by some is a referendum, not to the whole people but to part of the people of only 13 states."

"Second: The phraseology of any proposed amendment would be the subject of endless debate and once submitted might suffer the fate of the child labor amendment which has been pending for 13 years."

"Third: Any amendment must, if adopted, be construed and applied by the same judges who have brought us to our present pass."

"In the words of Thomas Jefferson the attempt to make the law governing by amendment is only throwing out the old to bring in the new sophistry. All that is required is an enlightened interpretation of the constitution."

Emphasizes Points
Cummings, seated in a red leather chair, read his prepared statement, deliberately, occasionally tripping the chair arm to emphasize a point.

Judiciary committee members listened intently, many of them jotting notes.

Cummings said he was "aware of no serious objections" to the reforms proposed by the President to meet the injunctive situation.

On the question of "aged and infirm judges," he said that a similar plan had passed the house in 1889 and had been frequently advocated since.

He quoted Taft, Hughes, and Justice McReynolds in support of retiring elderly judges.

"No one thinks," he said, "that judges are not human or that three score years and ten do not work upon them like upon other men."

Discussing "the crowded condition" of the courts, Cummings gave many statistics, asserting that "the trial of more than two-thirds of the private civil litigation in United States district court is stalled by clogged dockets."

Turning to the supreme court he said that "during a great part of our history—the business of the supreme court has been sadly in arrears."

He said the court had been able recently to keep abreast "by limiting the number of cases heard."

"By thus inventing, as it were, the usual situation, the court hears and decides not what is presented but only what it can handle," he asserted.

Suggests Work Plan
Cummings added that with increased membership the court might divide into groups for the consideration of applications for review, thus reducing the number that each judge might be expected to examine.

EXPECT $3.56 PER BOX ON ORANGES

A thousand Orange county citrus growers were back at their ranches today, digesting the varied and interesting information given them yesterday at the annual citrus institute, held in the Anaheim Union High school.

Held under auspices of the farm bureau citrus department and agricultural extension service, the theme of the annual citrus classic was the frost situation in Orange county. C. Jack Zinn, chairman of the citrus department, presided.

In the afternoon session Prof. R. W. Hodgson of U. C. L. A. reviewed the world citrus situation, describing recent horticultural observations in India and Egypt, as the first speaker on the program.

Orderly Marketing
Pooling and picking plans in relation to orderly marketing were discussed by F. F. Heydenfeldt, manager of the growers service department of the California Fruit Growers exchange.

One of the major talks was made by Paul S. Armstrong, general manager of the exchange, who told the growers the present navel crop would be cleaned up before the Valencia season gets under way in the middle of April.

Quantity of valencias that will be available for sale remains indefinite, he said, with effects of the frost damage changing from week to week.

High optimism of the growers was reflected in Armstrong's talk, when the official of the exchange said it will be necessary for the marketing organization to get $3.56 a box for oranges to make up for the 38 per cent loss in frozen fruit. He indicated this could be done, however, with co-operation of the growers and their associations, by stringing out shipments and not overloading the eastern market.

Orchard Heating
Orchard management recommendations and an outline of lessons learned from the recent and former freezes were given by W. R. Schoonover, citrus specialist of the agricultural extension service. He warned growers not to prune frost-damaged trees for at least a year, and discussed orchard heating problems.

Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg made a comprehensive exposition of the question as to whether it would pay most Orange county citrus growers to install orchard heaters. He pointed out that there are but 5000 acres of the 72,000 devoted to sub-tropical fruits protected by heaters. His conclusions were that in Orange county it is not economy to install heaters, except in a few places in the county which are colder than others.

Agricultural Commissioner D. W. Tubbs discussed standardization regulations in the movement of the 1937 crop. He outlined the activities of the state department of labor and the county inspectors in relation to shipment of fruit.

Contract on Road Oil Is Awarded
A contract with M. M. McCallen, Huntington Beach, to supply light and medium road oil to the county for the present year was signed yesterday by the board of supervisors.

scribes the work—particularly the reading of briefs—which he said now burdens the supreme court, he departed from his manuscript to explain:

"Why, it's just like reading that 'Gone With the Wind' before breakfast every morning."

Cummings explained that his words "a tortured construction of the constitution" were taken from an opinion of the supreme court.

Answer Draws Laughter
Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) said the attorney general's high court were increased to 15 there would not still be the danger of 8-7 decisions against laws passed by congress.

"It might happen, but I wouldn't expect any such results," Cummings replied. His answer drew a laugh from the big audience.

The Wyoming senator asked if the witness felt the bill would provide a "permanent remedy."

"There is no such thing as permanency in this life," was the reply.

O'Mahoney asked whether it would not be practicable to get the 12 legislatures now in session to join with congress in calling constitutional conventions to pass an amendment requiring two-thirds vote to invalidate legislation.

"Not Practicable"
Cummings replied.

Senator King (D., Utah), a bitter foe of the President's proposal, interjected:

"You postulate the appointment of judges who agree with your views?"

"Not with my views," Cummings replied, but with the constitutional doctrine of the courts' functions, which has been pronounced many times by the court itself."

Norris Dissents
When Borah noted that the program called for no limitation on the court's right to invalidate laws by a bare majority, Cummings declared that "the weight of legal opinion" held that such restrictions could be imposed only by an amendment.

Senator Norris (Ind., Neb.)—who has long favored the requirement of a 7-to-2 vote to invalidate federal statutes—added:

"I want to announce my most emphatic dissent to that idea."

"I can't read the constitution and draw conclusions to bear out that judgment. If it is true, and we are going to follow a legislative remedy, then we are certainly reduced to the President's plan."

MORE ABOUT STARVING

tion, but said that an investigation doubtless would reveal as great a need in other cases.

"Many of our children," she said, "are in poor condition through lack of milk and proper food. The clothing situation is not quite so desperate now that the cold weather is over. Food seems to be the biggest problem at present."

Consider the plight of some of the cases at Franklin school. Case No. 1 consists of a father in poor health and not regularly employed. The mother is unemployed. They have four children in school. A married daughter, her husband and three more children live with the parents. Two of the daughter's children are in school. The children of both families are always in need of food and clothing.

Case No. 2 at Franklin. A motherless family which has been supported by three brothers now out of work. They applied to SRA for aid, but the SRA said they were so far behind on investigations that this case has been dropped in attention. It was stated in the report, "Eight persons," the report said, "three of them children in Franklin school and two in Willard, are in such distress that Franklin teachers have been donating food every day."

Case No. 3 at Franklin. "For years this family has been in need. The father drinks and is frequently in trouble. Of the eight children, four are still in Franklin. All need food and clothing."

Case No. 4 at Franklin has four children in Franklin school. "The mother," says the report, "gives fairly good care when she is able to do so but on various occasions has been completely out of funds. Then the children come to school without lunches and report having had no breakfast and sometimes no supper the night before."

Jefferson School, Too
Case No. 5. "A problem," the report states, "in this school for a number of years. Only the youngest child is in Franklin at present. One other child is in junior high. A married daughter has two children in Franklin. Both families need assistance."

And there are many others. One in Jefferson school, a story of what divorce means at times to a broken family. The father is supposed to help the family of mother and two girls by contributing $25 a month, but does not always do so, the report said. The SRA contributes $30 monthly in direct relief. But one of the girls, the younger, is seriously ill and needs a special diet of milk and eggs and meat.

At Edison School
Fourteen family cases where no proper food is available, were reported by Principal Hazel Maxwell of Edison school. The story of these cases is much the same as the others listed. In the families there are children numbering from one to eight. In some cases the father works but occasionally; some fathers are unable to work; in some cases the father is dead, in others they are in jail. The mothers who are head of families do what work they can. Some of them try to feed, house and clothe their families of four on $30 a month. But there are many hungry little mouths to feed, and often there isn't enough to go around.

Aspects of the situation are almost beyond belief in some cases. But the school officials are going to bat for these hungry kids. And they'll probably bring home the bacon!

Drivers Given Free Escort By Patrol Officer

Too exuberant to drive? Just stop in at the highway patrol office. They'll take care of you.

William C. Lyle, 51, and Bert Dilbeck, 41, of Buena Park, tried it yesterday afternoon, and look what happened to them.

Officer Ernie Sawyer, on duty alone, saw the car drive up to the highway patrol office and stop. He couldn't leave the office to see what the trouble was, however.

Some time later Officer Ray Braxfield reported for duty. Sawyer left him in the office, walked out to the car and peered in.

"Move over, boys," said Sawyer. "We're going to town."

They moved over, Sawyer climbed in behind the wheel, and drove to the county jail. Lyle and Dilbeck were booked there as drunk.

State Emergency Fund Padlocked

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—The senate finance committee yesterday padlocked the state's emergency fund with a consent to the governor's budget bill which would prevent interim committees from drawing money from it for investigations.

If the committee's action stands, inter-session investigating committees, generally, will be able to obtain only such funds as are specifically appropriated.

It was from the emergency fund that the governor ordered $20,000 for the assembly audit committee, headed by Leon M. Donihue.

18 Peasants Are Slain By Band

MEXICO CITY. (AP)—Dispatches received today from Guanajuato reported 18 peasants had been killed by an armed band of more than 250 men in an attack on the Zangarero and Burras ranches. The killers fled to the mountains with federal troops in pursuit.

SEWER REPAIR DIVERS AIDED

Divers at work on repairing the break in the ocean end of the outfall sewer now can work with both hands.

Steel sheet piling coffer dams have been erected around both sides and the ocean end of the pipe sections now being worked on. It was announced today by City Engineer J. L. McBride.

This phase of the job, never tried before on outfall sewer repairs here, quiets the ocean waters so that the divers can work on the job with both hands. Heretofore they have had to cling to solid objects with one hand to keep from being tossed around by the breakers.

The dam has been built around three sections of the outfall sewer. Foundation piles have been driven and two joints of pipe have been set in place. There are seven joints altogether to put in place. Each of the joints weighs three and one-half tons.

Weather recently has been exceptionally fine, and there have been but two days during the past month that the repair work has been interrupted, which is getting along faster than was at first anticipated.

ORPHEO TROUPE HEARD AT J. C.

Students at Santa Ana Junior college were entertained this morning by the jaycee Orpheo troupe. In the program were a one-act play, vocal solos, and the men's chorus.

"Liars Two," an original one-act play written and directed by William C. Backman, local student, was presented as the main feature. The cast consisted of Ola Orrell, Carolyn Ryan, Virginia Wilson, Joe Crawford and Paul Martin.

A solo by Lynwood Young, local singer, was heard, as was one by Marijane Belcher. The men's chorus also sang. Miss Myrtle A. Martin, music department head, directed the chorus.

Next week's assembly will be presented by the Yampunian Club, which will take part are the Bachelors, Buccaneers, Junior Lions, and Los Gauchos. The following week, the women's service clubs will sponsor the performance.

SAFETY DRIVE HERE GIVEN PRAISE

Fullerton Booster Says Campaign Has Brought About Improvements

Nineteen new citations for traffic violations were issued by Santa Ana police yesterday, as audible support for Chief Floyd Howard's safety drive was voiced in two widely separated quarters.

Secretary Harry May of the Fullerton chamber of commerce voiced his support of the program in a letter to Chief Howard as follows:

"For a year or more I have been impressed (and a little bit annoyed) by the number of cars that would scoot around me while I was driving at a good stir 25 through the residence section of Santa Ana. The number of people thus giving me the run-around was seldom less than six and has run as high as 15.

"This morning, while driving to and from the business center of Santa Ana, I was passed by only two cars in-bound, and one car out-bound. Congratulations!"

At the same time the B. J. McMullen Chevrolet company of Santa Ana issued orders to all its employees to obey every traffic rule implicitly, and voiced appreciation of Chief Howard's campaign.

Citations issued yesterday included: For speeding—Dick Geeting, 2405 Valencia street; Benjamin S. Ray, Los Angeles; J. A. Linney, Los Angeles; Louis G. Hising, Anaheim; G. R. Hibbert, 509 Westaria place; Felipe P. Peralta, Los Angeles; J. H. Suzuki, 1055 West Fourth; Jessie McKnight, Laguna Beach; William Myers, San Gabriel; Ralph J. Townsend News, Views

By WALTER R. ROBB

(Opinions and comment expressed in this column are not necessarily those of The Journal—Editor's note.)

During the latter part of February, California newspapers carried press reports that Townsend national headquarters and Dr. Francis E. Townsend had failed to pay employees of the San Francisco office.

The report also included the suggestion that the California state labor commissioner would close all California Townsend clubs unless the employees were paid by national headquarters.

This column tonight will be devoted to giving the truth concerning this matter as it comes from the doctor and a special bulletin from national headquarters secretary, Gilmour Young. Excerpts from the doctor's letter follows:

"I wish to make my position clear to the members of the Townsend clubs of California. Neither the doctor nor the Townsend National Recovery Plan, Inc., ever hired or paid any of the employees in the San Francisco office, nor was the rent or expense of maintaining the office paid by us. All of these employees were hired by Edward J. Margret. Their services were used by him and he should pay them.

"When the official order from national headquarters closed all state offices on Jan. 16, 1937, Mr. Margret continued to maintain this office for his own personal use. I see no reason why the Townsend National Recovery Plan, Inc., should be liable for or should pay the salaries of the employees of Mr. Margret who were or who are now working for him at 133 Powell street.

"Townsend National Recovery Plan, Inc., is meeting all of its obligations regularly, and all of the salaries of the employees which it has hired are being paid each week.

(Signed) Dr. Francis E. Townsend.

Women Enter Farm Speaking Contest
The women of the Farm bureau home department have decided to enter the state bureau public speaking contest again this year," said Mrs. T. W. Clark of Stanton, chairman of the home department of the Orange County Farm bureau.

"Health for Rural America," continued Mrs. Clark, "is the subject for this year's speaking contest, which is sponsored by the Associated Women of the American Farm Bureau federation and is a national contest conducted in the various counties of the 48 states affiliated with the American Farm Bureau federation. The winner of each state then competes at the national convention for the national championship."

Mrs. Nora Walker of West Orange represented Orange county in the 1936 contest and placed second in California. Mrs. McArthur, who won the California contest, went on to win the national award.

A committee is now actively at work in each farm center, and plans for an elimination contest within the county are now in the process of being developed.

They were married in Cedarville, Modoc county, Mrs. Wood being a native daughter, and Mr. Wood coming to California when 1 year old, in a covered wagon, from Illinois. For many years he conducted a grocery in Orange, but has lived in Long Beach for the past 12 years.

WOULD PROTECT LAND BUYERS
Realtors of Southern California moved today to prohibit further temporary licensing of real estate salesmen, in an effort to protect property buyers wherever possible.

W. F. Cuddy, Santa Ana, vice president of the Southern California Real Estate association, said members of the Twelfth District California Real Estate association, meeting yesterday in Belvedere, unanimously approved action of the state association to prevent further temporary licensing.

The movement is said to have the backing of the state real estate commissioner. It would prevent high pressure tactics of out-of-town promotional groups in special sales campaigns, Cuddy said. Next step will be to introduce a bill in the legislature.

The meeting also voted opposition to the assembly bill introduced by Assemblyman Voght, having to do with illegal practice of law, and voted unanimous opposition to the assembly bill introduced by Rosenthal which would do away with restrictions on real estate.

Four Santa Ana realtors attended the session. They were Carl Mock, Earl V. Hawks, president of the Santa Ana Realty board, Raymond Nowotny and Cuddy. Speaker was Hayden F. Jones, past president of the state association, who discussed real estate taxation.

Marquis' Widow Admits Thefts
LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Theodore Marcone, 51-year-old widow of an Italian marquis, hoped today for probation when she is sentenced March 16 for stealing a knife and two jars of preserves. The articles, valued at $250, were taken from a downtown store.

Mrs. Marcone pleaded guilty yesterday. Detective Lieut. R. A. Sanford said clippings in her scrapbook shows she was an actress with Ada Rehan and Augustin Daly. Broadway, played in D. W. Griffith movies in 1911, and married the Marquis di Marcone in Hollywood.

HOG RANCH BAN IS DELAYED

Hog ranches, reported descending on Orange county in large numbers as the result of restrictions in Los Angeles county, were given an added week of grace yesterday.

Supervisors delayed until next Monday action on a proposed ordinance which would prescribe strict regulations and bar such ranches from districts where they would be offensive.

A tentative draft by District Attorney W. F. Menton provides that ranches feeding more than 15 hogs will require permits, which may be denied if it is shown that the primary purpose is to dispose of garbage.

It further provides that permits may be withheld if the hench is within a half mile of a public school or park, if there are 20 dwellings within a half mile, or if 10 households within the same distance protest.

Public hearings before the board of supervisors would be a requirement before issuing permits.

Newbert District Plans to Disband
Newbert protection district, formed years ago to provide dikes to hold the Santa Ana river in its banks, today saw hopes that it will be able to wind up its affairs and disband.

After the district had accomplished its purpose several years ago and was ready to turn the dikes over to the county, it was discovered that the law under which it was formed made no provision for disbanding.

District Attorney W. F. Menton told the board of supervisors yesterday that he and Franklin West, attorney for the district, are planning an amendment to the state law and will be able to get it before the legislature at its present session.

S. A. Man Claims Record for Chain Letter Distance

That Costa Mesa chain letter that's been going around 50 years is all right. But then there is the Vigars family.

The Vigarses, father, son and cousin, have been carrying on a round-and-round correspondence for some 35 to 50 years, anyway, and they claim the championship for covering distance.

Harold Grauel and J. O. Tallman of Costa Mesa started it all when they told a Journal reporter about their chain letter, which has nothing to do with the outmoded scheme of putting a dime in an envelope and getting $400, maybe.

Both the Grauels and the Vigarses use the letters to keep in touch with Aunt Maria and Cousin Jedediah, wherever they may be. Each relative, when he gets a thick envelope filled with letters from members of the "chain-gang," writes one of his own, takes out his last letter (which has gone the rounds) and mails the lot to the next fellow along the line.

R. J. Vigars, Santa Ana insurance man, has one multiple letter on hand now. Last time he wrote one was back in September, and he was right in style when he started out, "Knock, knock, who's there? Cully, Cully, who's there? Meaning he's the only one of the relatives who lives in chamber of commerce territory. Now that

CHANGE DATE OF J. C. AGENDA

Announcement of change of date for the fourth semi-annual agenda for Southern California junior colleges was made today. Originally scheduled for Saturday, March 20, the date has been changed to one week later, March 27.

Each semester, all junior colleges in the Southland are invited to the agenda where problems of interest to all are discussed. Last semester, the meeting was held at Santa Ana Junior college, where Vic Rowland, first semester associated student president, presided.

As president of the conference, Rowland will be one of four representatives from the local jays. Neil McDaniel, present associated student president, will select the other delegates.

Last semester, four student executive board officers were selected to represent Santa Ana at the confab. They were Rowland, Betty Lee, Bob Swanson and Tay Riggs.

Questions are to be submitted by jayses desiring to attend the conference. Junior colleges which have been extended invitations to attend the confab at Glendale Junior college, and who are expected to send delegates, are Citrus, Compton, Brawley, El Centro, Fullerton, Glendale, Long Beach, Los Angeles, Oceanside, Chaffey, Pasadena, Pomona, Riverside, San Bernardino, Santa Monica and Santa Ana.

ACTORS TO USE DUTCH GARB

Gay Dutch peasant skirts and pantaloons, saucy headresses and colorful bodices are being designed and made for the musical comedy, "Sweethearts," which is being produced here a week from tomorrow by the Santa Ana High school music department.

The colorful Victor Herbert extravaganza is particularly effective with its Dutch village setting. A total of 125 costumes are being evolved under the supervision of Miss Lucinda Griffith, head designer, and the professional labor of WPA sewing projects.

In the first act, according to Herbert Bickel, production manager, all costumes are in the Hans and Gretel peasant style, and have been designed by the following students: Irene Krisher, Jane Austin, Josephine Butler, Wanda Todd, Ruby Michok, Thelma Finnegan, Roberta Shaffer, Billie Wieland and Albert Wright. Mary McKee, Betty Hartman, Marjorie McCune and Madeline Gilbert are acting as wardrobe mistresses.

Issue New Air Mail Stamps Today
Two new issues of air mail stamps went on sale today at the Santa Ana post office.

Assistant Postmaster Flake Smith announced receipt of 200 50-cent air mail stamps and 500 20-cent air mail stamps. Both new stamps are the size of a special delivery stamp, and have pictures of a sailing vessel with a figure ship in the air above, flying toward the setting sun.

The stamps are put out in the 50 and 20-cent denominations cover postal rates to Hawaii and China on the clipper ships. The air mail postage to Hawaii is 20 cents and to China 70 cents.

While no official word has been received on the matter, postal officials here understand that the 25-cent air mail stamps will be called in, as the new issue replaces them. The local post office still has about 400 of the 25-cent denomination.

Will Apply for Seed Loans Here
A representative of the Farm Credit administration, George Beck, will be in the farm credit office, 8:30 a. m., Friday, to interview applicants for emergency crop and feed loans. These loans are only available to those who have acreage fit for cultivation, the necessary equipment for farming operations, and who are unable to obtain loans from other sources.

Such loans are secured by a first lien upon the crop which is financed in whole or in part. In the case of a feed loan, a first lien is taken upon the livestock to be fed. The maximum amount which can be loaned any individual is $400, the interest rate on which is 4 per cent. These loans are not supplemental to any made by the Resettlement administration.

UNION MAKES 2500 TESTS PER DAY

The price of perfection comes high in the petroleum industry. It would startle the average motorist to learn that Union Oil company, for example, in one plant, makes approximately 2500 tests every day, nearly 70,000 per month, to check material specifications from crude petroleum to finished products. It takes scores of technicians, a huge research laboratory devoted exclusively to the work and several hundred thousands of dollars annually to make sure these petroleum products are just right.

Every day, continuous testing at various stages of operation results in a total of 440 tests being made in the production of Triton motor oil. This is at the rate of three complete tests every 10 minutes. Twenty-five different types of tests are included in this total. In the production of its 76 gasoline, the company's refinery in continuous testing at various stages of operation makes 144 tests, which is at the rate of one complete test every 10 minutes. In addition, continuous testing at other points results in 310 additional checks on the gasoline's quality at various stages along the production line. Twelve different types of tests are made directly on the gasoline in the refining process.

Tests on greases, solvents, asphaltic products, fuel and Diesel oils make up the balance of the 2500 tests made daily by this Union Oil company plant.

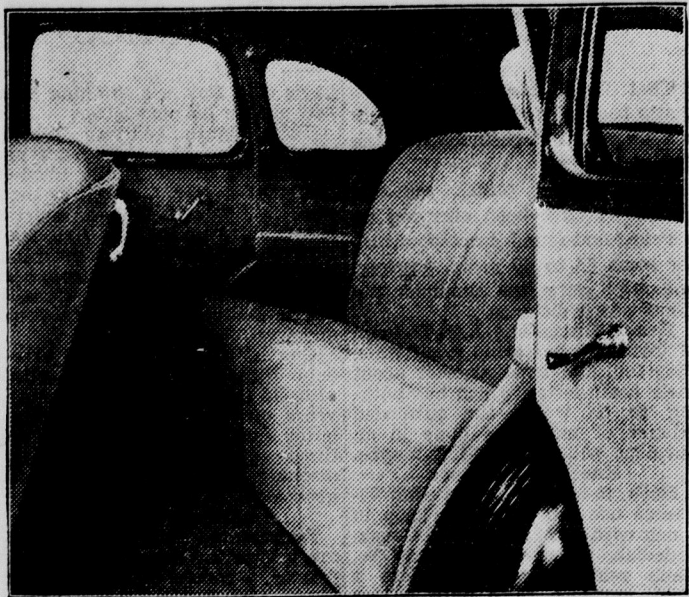

Grace Moore Is Hit in New Film

Singing her way into the hearts of movie fans, the opera star, Grace Moore, once again scores a hit in films. This time it's "When You're in Love," showing for the last time tonight at the Broadway theater.

The picture has Miss Moore as an Australian opera star, forced to find a husband before being permitted to enter America. Cary Grant is seen opposite the diva and gives the best performance of his brilliant career as an adventurous painter with an eye for beauty and a hand with which to hoist highballs. The supporting cast includes Aline MacMahon, Catharine Doucet, Henry Stephenson, Thomas Mitchell and Luis Alberni.

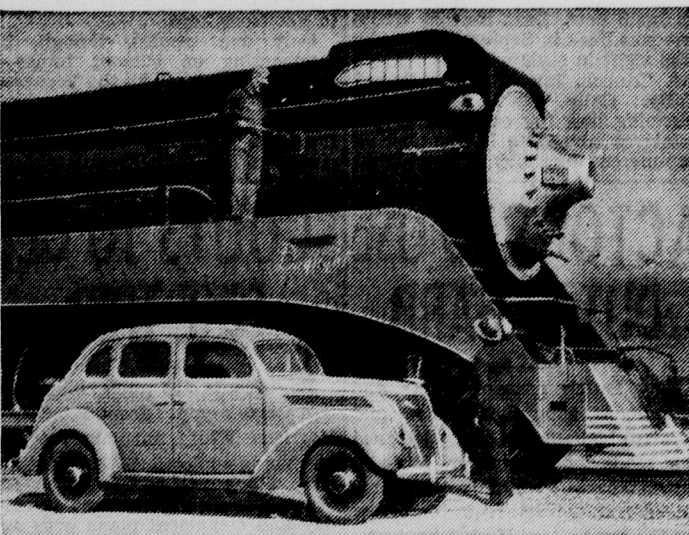

The latest of the "Hopalong" Cassidy stories, "Borderland," is the other feature on the bill. William Boyd is again seen in the leading role with James Ellison.

Modern Transportation Streamlined

Pictured above with a new Ford V-8 touring sedan is one of six new Southern Pacific locomotives—largest and most powerful streamlined steam locomotives in the world—which are scheduled to go into service in April between Los Angeles and San Francisco. "Entirely new in design with long, graceful lines," says George Dunton, local Ford dealer, about its streamlined beauty of the highway, and Southern Pacific says the same about its streamlined beauty of the rails.

Car Troubles on Bay Bridge Keep Service Men Busy

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—An automobile breaks down or runs out of fuel on the 8½-mile bay bridge almost every hour. The maintenance crew is kept busy supplying cars with gasoline, towing them or changing tires.

A total of 2,249 vehicles, Chief Engineer C. H. Purcell reported today, was serviced from last Nov. 12, when the bridge opened, to March 1.

Of the number, 1,294 were serviced with gasoline; 694 were towed

DESPERADOES' DEATH AUTO DISPLAYED

Telling the grim story of the "wages of sin," the Clyde Barrow-Bonnie Parker "death car" sits on display in the Headley Motor Co. showroom today and tomorrow between the hours of 1 and 9 p. m.

The public is invited to visit the showroom and see the car and hear the lecture which goes along with the exhibition. Parents are urged to bring their children to see for themselves that "crime does not pay."

The two most notorious desperadoes of the west, perhaps the most peculiar combination in history, Clyde Barrow and his woman companion who smoked big black cigars and fired a six-shooter like a man; evaded officers many times and shot their way out of many a close place. They left a trail of blood behind them wherever they went. It seemed they were too powerful for the law, until an ambush was arranged and the two desperadoes were shot down in the very car they had been using to evade the police.

Every person in Santa Ana will want to see the car on display and hear the educational and instructive lecture. There is no charge for admission.

LEGION SPEECH FINALS SET

William Takahashi of Anaheim and Dave Day of Fullerton will represent Orange county next Monday night in tri-county finals of the American Legion's annual oratorical contest on the constitution.

Takahashi and Day tied for first place last night in county finals held in the American Legion hall here. Next Monday they will meet four representatives of Riverside and San Bernardino counties at the Anaheim high school auditorium for a place in the Southern California finals.

Tom Sullivan of Garden Grove was second in last night's competition, and Robert Hess of Orange and Betty Lamson of Newport Beach tied for third place.

Both Takahashi and Day expressed confidence in the tripartite system of government under the United States constitution, and compared our present form with the rule under which Europeans live.

DUST MAY BE FUTURE FUEL FOR AUTOS

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Henry G. Knight, chief of the government's bureau of chemistry and soils, told the Midwestern Chemurgic Conference yesterday that the time has come to give thought to possibilities of operating automobiles and other internal combustion engines on solid fuels—such as starch dust.

Calling attention to the destructive forces of dust explosions in grain elevators, flour mills, starch factories, wood working plants and others, Knight suggested it is not unreasonable to assume that such power may be harnessed.

"We are quite reliably informed that within 20 or 30 years our supply of petroleum will be nearing exhaustion," he said, "so it is not too early to begin seeking substitutes."

SHELL ENLARGES TOURIST AID

Evidence that the "tourist crop" of 1937 will be one of the largest in the history of the West, extending the gains made in 1936 and exceeding last year's figures by a wide margin, is to be seen in preparations under way by Shell Oil company to supply western motorists with road maps and travel guidance.

As tourists are now rated one of the largest revenue producers of this section and one which benefits countryside, small towns and big cities alike, this expected increase in motor travel is of major importance to everybody. Orders for 1937 Shell road maps will run close to 20 per cent larger than the entire 1936 printing, according to C. S. Brakebill, local manager for Shell. Reorders as the season advances are expected to add considerably to the total. He said that 2,375,000 road maps were distributed in the 10 western states by Shell last year, and the total this year will approach and perhaps exceed 3,000,000.

Shell touring service, which originated on the Pacific coast, and has come to be one of the major information services of the West, is being extended this year to the Atlantic coast in response to public demand. Motorists traveling across the continent this year can get the same free travel guidance and road maps in the Middle-West and East that they have come to rely on here.

The Shell manager also announced that Shell stations will continue to supply motorists with resort directories, hotel guides, auto camp and motor court lists, and detailed recreation and scenic information regarding all sections of the West.

BOOST WELFARE STAFF HERE

Jack Snow, new county welfare director, came out of his first brush with the county board of supervisors today with permission to fill one vacancy and add three persons in his department.

Supervisor John Mitchell opposed the action, declaring Snow was "overloading his personnel." Snow reported that the case load of the department has increased 15 per cent since Jan. 1 and old age cases have increased one third in the same time, with an increase of only four per cent in personnel.

Overhead costs, Supervisor N. E. West reported, are 12 per cent now as compared with 16 per cent immediately before Snow took office. Mitchell challenged, however, with an assertion that he figures overhead at 25 per cent, based only on county funds and not the total of all funds handled by the office.

More help in the office is required, Snow and Supervisor Steele Finley, welfare committee-man, reported, in order to clear up pending old age security applications and to meet new loads being transferred by WPA and SRA.

To speed up applications for old age relief, Snow is asking applicants to bring to the office their proof of age, residence, inability of relatives to give support, and other data needed, the director reported.

Previously the department had applicants wait until a department visitor called for the data.

Discussion revealed that although the year's budget provided for 43 welfare employees, 50 have been employed since last September. Snow ran afoul of the auditor's office last week when warrants for an added employee and several who had been raised in pay were turned down.

Supervisor Harry D. Riley complimented Snow with the remark: "Since the first of the year I haven't heard a complaint of lack of human understanding."

Finley said that many aged had been afraid to ask about applications, but that he has been spending each day at the courthouse showing the method of making applications.

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—The twenty thousand San Franciscans who habitually ride in taxicabs went ahead today without a break in their routine, a result of the calling off of a strike of Yellow Cab Company drivers that had been set for 5 a. m. today. It can be used in many lines of business, among which the most prominent ones are grocers, florists, meat markets, bakeries, laundries, manufacturing stationers, dry cleaners, department stores, women's shops and others, according to L. D. Coffing, local Dodge dealer.

CHRYSLER CO. HEAD BANNED FROM PLANT

DETROIT. (AP)—Pickets refused to admit K. T. Keller, president of Chrysler Corp., to its striker-held Highland Park plant yesterday. When men inside the grounds would not open the main gate at his order, Keller shouted to others nearby:

"I want you all to witness this. From now on, they deal with the courts."

Keller was driven to the gate by his chauffeur, who honked for admittance. Nothing happened. Keller got out of his car, walked over to the gate and said: "Open this gate."

"Nothing doing," replied men standing inside.

"I command you to open this gate," Keller said loudly.

Men standing around the outside took up the cry, "open the gate." The men at the gate again refused, and Keller left.

The men inside pushed trucks loaded with bolts and nuts against the gate.

Joshua Trees Have Long Life

This Nash Ambassador Six, representative of a line of cars that are built to stay built, is in good company here for the Joshua tree. Contrary to popular belief, the Joshua outlives the Sequoia Semper-virens or Sequoia Gigantea, famous big trees of the Redwood variety. And strangely enough, the Joshua is not a tree, but a lily whose botanical name is Yucca elaeagnifolia. It is found nowhere in the world but the southwestern desert of the U. S., says R. W. Townsend, local Nash dealer.

A 1937 Nash, complete with defrosters, recently investigated the Joshua and learned some astonishing things about it, says R. W. Townsend, local dealer. In the first place it isn't a tree, but a lily whose botanical name is Yucca elaeagnifolia. In the second place, competent authorities have claimed that it is the oldest living thing on the face of the earth, even pre-dating the famous sequoia big trees which have long enjoyed the distinction of being the oldest living things on earth. And in the third place, the petrified pieces of fallen Joshuas are not petrified at all, but got that way while the tree, or lily, was still alive.

Actually, "petrified" tissue of a Joshua is similar to scar tissue of an animal in that it is built by the tree to heal and wall off a wound. When, for instance, the Joshua's own pet pest, the small yucca boring weevil, begins its invasion by working in the ends of branches, the tree begins to repair. As the blood of the animal congeals about a wound, so does the Yucca send to its wounds a sap laden with silica. The silica, deposited in cell walls, produces a barrier.

Townsend was told that the normal wood of a fallen Joshua is light, porous and easily crumbled, but the remnants which have had the silica treatment remains invulnerable to the elements, impenetrable to the small animals that burrow in the softer portions, and unconquerable by the horde of termites infesting the arid deserts. But as "coal" it is prized by prospectors and homesteaders for its burns evenly and slowly, leaving little ash.

POLICY SET BY TOMATO MEN

The vegetable growers of California are continuing their efforts to put their business on a more stabilized basis, it was reported today by William Greeley, chairman of the vegetable department of the Orange County Farm bureau, in commenting upon the program of the vegetable department. Greeley's statement covered the following points:

Reports from the tomato growers' committee of the California Farm Bureau federation show that their survey throughout the state reveals that growers are refusing to sign for less than $15 per ton roadside and that in most counties very few contracts have been signed up to this time. In Southern California reports are quite general that canners are offering from $15 to $17 roadside depending on the reputation of the grower for producing good products and the time of the year in which the tomato will be produced as well as the question of varieties.

The report shows that the so-called farm bureau contract which makes the production of the tomatoes and their binding upon the producer and their purchase by the cannery compulsory is being used in many areas.

"Some canneries, however, are trying to get the growers to sign on the old canners' association contract form which amounts to only an option to purchase," said Greeley.

The Southern California growers, continued Greeley, are pleased to note the efforts being put forth in northern California this year and are asking each individual grower not to sign a contract with any cannery unless it provides for a minimum roadside price of not less than $15, with weekly payments. These matters will be discussed at the meeting of the vegetable department of the Orange County Farm bureau at the farm bureau assembly hall tonight.

WESTERN AUTO CELEBRATES

Although its twenty-first anniversary celebration is being observed in over 200 stores in the West, the beginning of the Western Auto Supply company was as humble as its present size is impressive. Its great birthday event, now in progress, commemorates the beginning in one small store of a company which has grown by merit alone to the position of the largest concern of its kind in the world, according to R. W. Harness, resident manager of the firm.

He asserts that the great event features hundreds of extra values for motorists because the company's normally rock-bottom prices have been reduced even further.

"A most important feature of this anniversary event is the special trade-in sale covering the entire famous Western Giant line of tires," Harness declares. "This includes the De Luxe Super Whipcord, the ultra modern Silent Grip, the sturdy double duty, and the popular Traveler, as well as tires for trucks, tractors, busses, and farm vehicles. Extra allowances are being made on old tires to make the replacements cost less during this event. Motorists will particularly appreciate these savings in the face of constantly mounting prices."

"A liberal trade-in sale also applies to all batteries sold by the company during the event. The high quality batteries that have won fame for dependability and service may be had at a greater saving by applying your old battery in part payment during this celebration," he adds.

"Another feature of this event is the low oil prices especially reduced at this time. Greater savings than ever are now offered on Penn Supreme, Western Auto's finest 100 per cent pure Pennsylvania oil, and Long Run, the highest quality western oil.

"The scores of greater money-saving values in these and all other departments of our store," says Harness, "is our way of celebrating the 21 years of steady, consistent growth which we have enjoyed."

Claude Rains 'Steals Picture' At West Coast

The title "king of picture stealers" has come to rest on Claude Rains, probably to stay for some time. His latest opportunity is in the Kay Francis film, "Stolen Holiday," now screening at the West Coast theater.

In "Stolen Holiday," he plays the part of a penniless adventurer in Paris who builds up a vast fortune through daring financial swindles which finally culminate in disaster. Miss Francis as a fashion arbiter is his innocent accomplice. The story is a thrilling and romantic one concerning the rise of a lovely mannequin to position of queen of fashion in Paris, dictating to the world what women will wear. An impressive supporting cast includes Ian Hunter, Alison Skipworth, Betty Lawford, Walter Kingsford and Frank Reicher.

"Man of the People" is the supporting feature, and has Joseph Calleia in his first hero role. Florence Rice plays opposite and Ted Healy handles the comedy. Thomas Mitchell scores a hit as the ward leader, menace to the career of Calleia, who is seen as an honest attorney with ambitions to become the district attorney of a big city.

er departments of our store," says Harness, "is our way of celebrating the 21 years of steady, consistent growth which we have enjoyed."

In reviewing his company's history, Harness states that "Western Auto's very unpretentious beginning in the spring of 1916 bore no outward indication of the widespread popularity which the future held for it. That first little shop was just another accessory store selling such car needs as 'one-man' tops, windshields and self-starters.

Tribute to the place that newspaper advertising has played in the 21 years' growth of his company was recently paid by President Pepperdine when he stated that "since the very beginning we

HITLER ATTACK IS REPEATED

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York reiterated in the national capital this week statements regarding Adolf Hitler for which the state department apologized to the German government.

Referring to his assertion last week that the 1939 world fair in New York City ought to have a statue of Hitler in a "chamber of horrors," LaGuardia said:

"I still entertain all my abhorrence to anyone who threatens the peace of the world."

"If Hitler thinks I'm referring to him, he's absolutely correct."

"I say that as I stand in the shadow of the capital."

"It will take more than an apology by the state department to make me change my mind about what I said."

Job Placements Show Increase

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—Employment placements by the state during February numbered 15,240 workers, a 20 per cent increase over January and 46 per cent increase over the corresponding month in 1936. Roy S. Stockton, director of the California State Employment Service, announced today.

Applications for employment also were reduced 14.7 per cent over last month and 20.7 per cent over February of last year, he said.

have used newspaper advertising to tell our customers about the greater values we offer. Our first newspaper ad was as modest in size as our first store, but that small ad proved its worth and as the company grew we relied more and more upon newspapers, until today it is the most important item in our advertising program."

Preacher and Cop Rehearse For Safety Talk

KANSAS CITY. (AP)—The motorist was ordered to the curb for driving past a safety zone.

"I was wrong," readily admitted the Rev. Russell B. Briney, "was too busy talking to my wife about safety and you are right, officer. In fact, we approve heartily of your safety campaign. An officer is going to talk about it at my church."

Surprise spread over Patrolman Barney Mahoney's face.

"I'm that officer," he said. Off they went to church together.

After Judge Whit Boyd of Houston, Tex., married a couple using the word "obey." Mrs. Boyd marked "obey" out of his printed ceremony.

Run for the storm cellar! The Hollywood Athletic clubmen are coming to town... and they know their rugby!

Friday night, under the blazing mazdas of the Municipal bowl, Ernest Butterworth believes his Santa Ana Junior collegians will receive THE test of their '37 schedule. He credits the Hollywood outfit with playing perhaps the best type of rugby in Southern California.

Five former U. C. L. A. veterans are among Hollywood's eight forwards... A New Zealander, Middlelars, plays scrum half... Stanford talent is found at the stand-off and three-quarters positions.

On paper, the competition appears too "hot" for our Dons despite their record of 5-0 and 6-0 wins over the U. S. C. and U. C. L. A. freshmen. On the playing field, however, it may be a different story.

Baseball players speak a language all their own on the field and under the showers. An umpire is a "Blind Tom" and a baseball is an "apple" in slang expressions known to all of us. Some of the less familiar terms are contained in The Sporting News' record book.

A "fireman" is a player who shatters and dresses quickly; a "Percentage Patsy" is one who plays for individual average; a "cousin" is a pitcher easy to hit; college players are "collisions"; a bat with poor wood is a "banana stalk."

Fullerton Jaycees' baseball varsity, with 10 returning lettermen, may be taken to Berkeley and Palo Alto for games with the California and Stanford freshmen... The Hornets' sting will be as sharp as ever in the Eastern conference this season.

Present-Day Hitters Lauded By Former Home Run King

Baker owns a thousand acres of rolling farm land around here, and it keeps him busy. He finds time, however, for fishing and hunting, particularly for ducks.

He may return to baseball soon in connection with the newly

ANAHEIM 9-2 VICTIM OF SAINT NINE

Tommy Wilkins Pitches 3-Hit Ball; Whittier Is Next for Koegler

While Tommy Wilkins' curve yielded only three hits, Santa Ana High school's baseball varsity pounded the offerings of two Anaheim hurlers for 11 safeties, including two homers, for a 9-2 victory at Poly field yesterday.

Tommy Wilkins, brother of Jim Wilkins who is now under the watchful eye of the Los Angeles Angels, would have scored a seven-inning shutout except for a wobbly third frame in which a double and single combined with an error and walk for two Anaheim runs.

First-baseman Gene O'Campo had a field day with the Saints in blasting a homer, triple and single in four trips to the plate. His four-py swat came in the fifth with none aboard. His triple came in the first inning.

Joe Ortega, the pitcher with the out-dropp who patrols third base while Wilkins is on the mound, poled a home run in the first inning with O'Campo aboard.

Ken Byland, sophomore catcher, rapped two doubles in three efforts, and Wilkins and Ortega each garnered a pair of safeties.

Anaheim employed a reserve, Oliveras, in the box until the fifth, when Ray Ortiz, Jr., came on duty to be greeted promptly by O'Campo's homer, Wilkins, single.

Coach Joe Koegler's Saints play another practice game at Whittier Friday afternoon.

Card Pennant Chances Rest With Infield

(This is another of a series on major league pennant prospects.)

By PAUL MICKELSON

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (P)—There'll be plenty of gas fumes, noise and class with the St. Louis Cardinals this year but whether they can cross the finish line first depends upon their infield.

While the pitching situation has been improved with the acquisition of Lon Warneke from the Chicago Cubs as a teammate of the great Dizzy Dean, who's certain to be out there chucking opening day, the infield problem has Manager Frankie Frisch walking the floor nights.

Frisch has eight infielders, including himself, at the beautiful Daytona Beach camp, but of the lot only Leo (Lippy) Duerocher is an established regular of major league calibre. And Duerocher is no freshman any more.

Johnny Mize should do at first. Yet, the second year often is fatal to a hopeful youngster.

It's the year that usually tells a player's story. Frisch hopes to use Stu Martin in second, if not himself, but Martin recently underwent an appendicitis operation and is 30 pounds under weight. Duerocher will be at shortstop. Don Guttridge, the problem is whether Don Guttridge can improve his hitting and field fast enough to fill the bill.

Although Mickey Owen, exceptional rookie from Columbus and Brusie Odrogowski, last year's receiver, look easily good enough to take care of the catching duties in good style, both must come through strongly to give the Cards what they need defensively and offensively there.

Frisch is optimistic about his pitching which collapsed and lost the pennant last season. Warneke fits into the Cardinal baseball scenery perfectly and Frisch's problem now is to find pitchers who can give Dean and Lon the help they must have. Paul Dean reports his sore arm healed but it's far too early to determine if he can come back to his former heights. Big Jim Winford, an erratic sort, with lots of power, looks like a regular starter, with SI Johnson, Bill McGee and Jess Haines listed for probably reserve duty. The outfield is well set with the same trio—Ducky Medwick, Pepper Martin and Terry Moore.

Santa Clara Nine Trips Bruins In Near-Riot, 10-7

LOS ANGELES. (P)—Baseball honors were evenly divided today between Santa Clara and U. C. L. A. after two wild-hitting games.

The hometown Bruins captured the first contest Monday, 15-7, and were ahead yesterday until the ninth inning. At this point the Broncos put on a six-run rally to win the decision, 10-7.

The Bruins had amassed a 7-4 lead in the eighth when their left fielder, John Zaby, was retired for treatment of a cut lip after a run-in with several Santa Clara players.

Manager Smith has issued a call for all rookies from the Santa Ana City and Orange County leagues wishing to try out with the Stars to report in uniform to him at the Municipal bowl Monday night. He urges the players to come in spiked shoes.

Smith, who will be assisted by Catcher Bomo Koral during the early drills, hopes to uncover an outfield recruit to replace Tom Denney, who announced his retirement two weeks ago.

Braddock's manager, Joe Gould, has signified he has no intention of going through with this contract and has signed for Braddock to meet Joe Louis in Chicago June 22.

LONG BEACH'S FIVE BEATEN 35 TO 33

Upcounty Junior College Scores 14 Consecutive Conference Victories

Fullerton Junior college was basking in the glory of a Southern California basketball championship today, after completing one of the most amazing records in conference annals at Long Beach last night.

The Yellowjackets made a clean sweep of the southland playoffs with a 35-33 victory over Long Beach. They defeated the Vikings, 26-21, last week.

More remarkable than Fullerton's "grand slam" against the Western division finalist last night was the bewildering manner in which Coach Art Nunn's upcounty collegians fought their way to the Eastern division championship with 12 consecutive victories.

Ted Neja, forward, and Lee Woodward, center, peppered the Long Beach basket for 13 and 11 points to aid Fullerton in overcoming a 21-18 lead Long Beach held at the intermission. Neja dropped in a field goal to give Fullerton the lead, 29-23, in the closing minutes of the bitterly-waged game.

The 1937 playoff paired two teams which were declared co-champions in 1933 after the earthquake of March 10 of that year halted a three-game series.

BOXING CARD REVAMPED

Don Benzo was written off the books today for the second boxing series of the new season at the Highway 101 arena tomorrow night by Matchmaker George Stewart.

Stewart gave no reason for cancelling the appearance of the tiny Anaheim tornado, except that he was "dissatisfied" with the semi-windup bout.

In place of the Benzo-Walter Jones 142-pounder, Huntington Beach boy, will meet Al Landry, a colored battler from Los Angeles. This bout will go in place of the scheduled fracas between Tiger Woods and Lloyd Mackey.

The main event tomorrow night will show Maxie Moore, Orange fighter now hailing from Santa Ana, Jaysee, against Rico Martinez of the Sherman Indian camp. They will weigh in at 140 pounds.

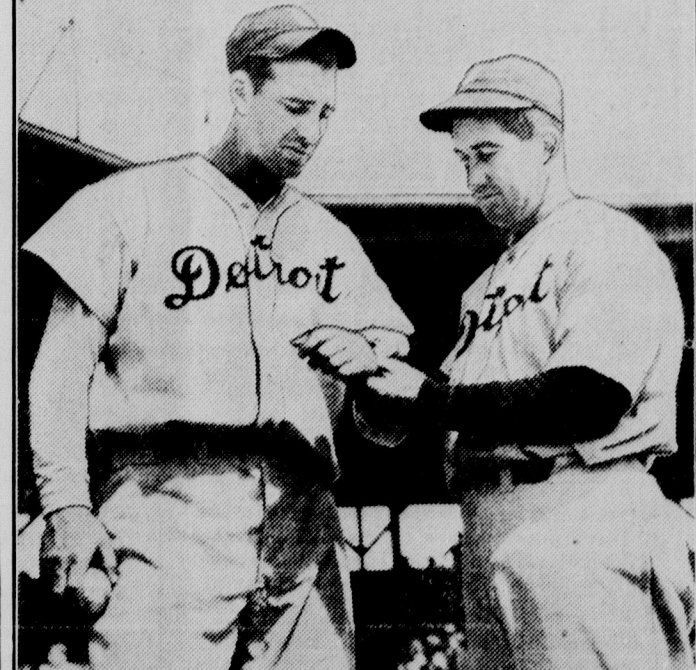

In the second half of the main event Cycone June is slated to tangle with Louie Hamilton of Los Angeles, at 136 pounds.

LOCAL COURT HEARS SEED DISPUTE

Argument Over Plants
Transferred Here
From Inglewood

A dispute between Clarence R. Brown, San Juan Capistrano grower, and the Moneta Nursery, Inc., of Inglewood, was before the superior court here today after passing through two justice courts. Justice Kenneth Morrison of the Santa Ana justice court yesterday certified the case to the superior court on grounds the amount involved amounted to more than $1000. It had been sent to his court from the Inglewood justice court because the defendant, Brown, is a resident of this county. The nursery started suit for $441 against Brown, charging that he had failed to pay for tomato plants delivered to him. Brown countered with charges that he had contracted to have the nursery raise plants from his seeds and return the plants to him. He had agreed, he said, to pay 65 cents per flat for the plants. But the nursery, he charged, mixed the plants up so that they were of no value as seed stock. Instead of making $3760 on them through sale of seeds, he had to sell them to a cannery for $1269, he charged. He asked judgment for the difference of $2491. Franklin G. West of Santa Ana is attorney for Brown.

'Fisherman's Luck' is the theme of tomorrow's session of the Southern Counties Gas company free cooking school, held at 2 p. m. at the Y. W. C. A. rooms, 105 East Fifth street. Everyone is welcome at these weekly sessions.

Supervisors to Meet on Monday

Supervisors will meet next Monday instead of Tuesday, their regular day, because of the state convention of supervisors to be held in Sacramento March 17 to 19. A. A. Beard, county highway superintendent, was authorized yesterday by the board to attend a meeting of county engineers, to be held at the same time and place. Although the conventions do not open until Wednesday, supervisors will be on the road Tuesday, they said.

No Parking on Annex Driveway

The circular driveway in front of the county courthouse annex will be a driveway and not a parking lot as soon as Purchasing Agent Eugene Fenelon can have signs erected. Yesterday the board of supervisors authorized Fenelon to post the drive against parking, but at the same time asked Highway Engineer A. A. Beard to estimate the cost of denoting it so that it can be used for parking.

Santa Ana's Ninety-Piece Syphony Bows Again Sunday Afternoon

RELATIVE OF SOIL EXPERT S. A. WOMAN INJURED

Mrs. Estella M. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Long, and Mrs. Byron E. Long and children have just returned from Atolia, where they were called by the serious injuries of little Dale Crosswhite, four-year-old grandson of the J. M. Longs and great grandson of Mrs. Wilson. Dale was hurt Sunday when the door on the family car, in which he was returning home from Sunday school with his mother, Mrs. A. T. Crosswhite (Orestell Long), and little brother, Wayne, flew open and he was thrown out into the gravel. His forehead and both arms were badly scraped and bruised, and he sustained two bad cuts on the back of his head when he rolled over on the stones. X-rays are being taken to determine the extent of the injuries.

Seeing the door fly open, Mrs. Crosswhite slammed on the brakes to save Dale and the sudden impact turned the vehicle completely over on the pavement after the little boy had been thrown out. She and her other son were only slightly bruised.

Mrs. Crosswhite is a former Santa Ana girl, having lived here with her grandmother, Mrs. Wilson, for a number of years. She is a graduate of Garden Grove schools and Santa Ana Junior college, and was formerly employed in Penney's store in this city.

Ranchers Ask Water Protection

Drainage and protection of the agricultural area south and west of the county hospital was asked yesterday by a delegation which appeared before the board of supervisors. Storm waters collect and stand in the area, causing great damage, they said. M. N. Thompson, flood control engineer, said plans for next year's flood control program included one of three proposed drainage pits in the area. Scheduled ahead, however, are drainage works at Richfield and Tustin.

Here is the musical organization that is bringing fame to Santa Ana through the music it plays. Under the baton of Director Elwood Bear, the augmented symphony this year has presented one outstanding concert, and will give its second Sunday afternoon at the Santa Ana High school auditorium. The group also is playing an integral part in the Santa Ana public schools system, where it acts as subject matter

Local Orchestra Aids in Bringing Appreciation of Music to School Children

By BOB GUILD
One of the finest organizations of its kind will bow again to Santa Ana Sunday afternoon. The Santa Ana Symphony orchestra is almost unique among similar groups because it cannot fail to play to an audience of interested and "prepared" listeners. The music of this 90-piece orchestral group is singularly good. Director Elwood Bear has formed and blended a splendid company of musicians.

But beyond this is one more fact that makes the symphony what it is in Santa Ana—the fact it is an integral and important part of the public school system. Ask Your Son

Ask your little boy about the Cesar Franck symphony, if you don't know. He'll probably be able to tell you. He's been learning about it in school. He'll be able to explain its construction to you, point out themes and variations, tell you what Franck meant by his "granite theme," where his motif is colored, where it is purely emotional. He also can tell you the simple story of Cesar Franck's youth and maturity—of how he struggled toward his own kind of success in spite of hardships, and how he attained it when an old man.

Fifth and sixth grades of the Santa Ana schools are joining in this music appreciation work, with the Santa Ana Symphony as subject matter. Hear Music Played

Sunday the orchestra will play the first movement from Franck's symphony, the Peer Gynt suite of Edvard Grieg, and three dances from Edward German's "Henry the Eighth." For the past two weeks all fifth and sixth grade students in the Santa Ana schools have been learning about the lives of Franck, Grieg and German. They have heard bits of the music played over and over—have learned to pick out themes and variations—have learned to explain the music's meaning.

Sunday when they go to the symphony concert they will know what they are hearing—and there in the Santa Ana Symphony is doing a good work—perhaps as good as the music it plays.

Farm income from Alabama in 1936 was estimated at more than $200,000,000—double that of 1932. $25,000,000 more than that of 1935.

S. A. Man Raises Rabbit With Tusks Like an Elephant
Was a rabbit ever an elephant? Or is the elephant a gigantic rabbit? The answer probably is "no" to both questions.

But just the same Fred Davis, 224 South Lime street, has a rabbit with tusks like an elephant. Or rather, he did have it until he killed it to sell.

Davis brought the skull to The Journal office. Four front teeth had grown into long, curved tusks. One of them was one and one-half inches in length. Davis said the rabbit had trouble in eating. He was unable to explain the tusks.

RESUME PLAN OF HOSPITAL DORMITORY

Plans to erect a dormitory building at the county hospital, halted two weeks ago when bids ran over the funds available, has been resumed today.

Supervisor Harry D. Riley, Anaheim, who is hospital committee man, reported to the board of supervisors yesterday that he and Architect Everett E. Parks, Santa Ana, have arranged plans to cut the size of the building about one-third.

This, Riley said, will reduce the cost to approximately $15,000, the amount budgeted. All bids received two weeks ago were rejected when it was found that the lowest, of Blystone & Van Tuylie, Brea, was $22,964.

Plans and specifications will come before the board next week for action and a call for new bids.

INCREASE IS SHOWN FOR DISTRICT

Rise of 17 Per Cent Is Reported Today By Board Member

One more sign of the return of prosperity to Orange county and Southern California was chalked up yesterday.

Sales tax receipts in the fifth administrative district, comprising Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties, showed an increase of 17.39 per cent over a similar period in the previous year.

Ray Edgar, member of the state board of equalization, announced the increase amounted to $265,272.93.

In making the announcement Edgar pointed out that no comparison is possible between the full period for the two years of 1935 and 1936, as the rate was 2½ per cent in 1935 and 3 per cent in 1936. These heavy increases, in his opinion, show that Californians are buying on a firm and substantial basis again after getting by with the least possible during the depression years.

Next in line were building materials, hardware and farm implements, grouped together, with an increase of 47.27 per cent. These heavy increases, in his opinion, show that Californians are buying on a firm and substantial basis again after getting by with the least possible during the depression years.

For 1936 the sales tax collected $81,235,923.28, virtually all of which went to needs of public education.

Luncheon Is Courtesy To Bride

Mrs. Robert Wade, Mrs. Edmund West, Are Co-Hostesses

Almost exactly five years ago two young brides put their heads and their bridal finery together and hosted a delightful bridge tea. At that time Mrs. Edmund West and Mrs. Robert Wade were repaying the numerous parties given for Miss Louise Stephenson before her marriage to Edmund West and for the pretty little Canadian wife whom Dr. Robert Wade had just introduced in Santa Ana. Coincidentally with this they honored as a special guest at the six-table affair Mrs. Robert Guild, then Miss Betty Maloney, for she was just then departing for college.

Yesterday afternoon these same charming young matrons united their forces in a similar delightful affair, complimenting Mrs. Terry Stephenson, Jr., who, until she married Mrs. West's cousin, was Miss Betty Rowland.

It was particularly nice in that they had invited many of the friends who had greeted them as brides, to meet Mrs. Stephenson as well as several of the newer friends who have been made during the five-year period.

Mrs. West's home on Kilson Drive was literally a bower of wildflowers. She and her young son, Edmund, Jr., who next week will celebrate his first birthday anniversary, had picked numberless long-stemmed yellow violets, and these were placed alternately in their bowls with great vases of almon blossoms. The flowers were brought from Descanso and Elsinore by Mrs. West's mother and sister, Mrs. J. B. Stephenson and Mrs. Joseph Cooley.

From another bowl rose graceful violets in the rich purple shades, and these were the gift of a little neighbor, Miss Mulberry Freestier, centering each luncheon table were the courteous gesture of Mrs. H. E. McCormac, another neighbor.

A crystal bowl was brimming over with golden pansies garnered at Santa Anita this weekend, and flanked by tapes of the glowing color, decorated the dining-room table.

The final touch was a spray of lovely lavender brocade, repeating the luscious colors of the other flowers. Special guests seated amid these fragrant blooms and the five tables of contract in play were Mrs. Elliott Rowland and Mrs. Terry Stephenson.

At the close of the afternoon it was discovered that not only a colorful refreshment tray was to be presented to the bride, but also, as a guest prize, but that she held high score, and consequently won a pale gold waterlily table ornament, most appropriate to the general flower atmosphere. Mrs. Raymond Terry of Anaheim won second prize, an ornamental flower boutonniere.

PIONEER FETED ON EIGHTIETH BIRTHDAY

Members of the Bunyard family and friends assembled Sunday at a Cypress home to mark the eightieth birthday anniversary of O. P. Bunyard, a pioneer of Orange county which has seen his home for almost half a century.

After a delicious buffet luncheon, served at 1 o'clock, outdoor games were enjoyed by the guests. Invited to join in the gala celebration with the octogenarian were Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Bunyard and daughters, Mrs. Edeline of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Boston and Mrs. Hazel Boston, of San Pedro, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Genesing of Long Beach, W. C. Bunyard, Mrs. Marian France and son, Bob, and G. R. Davis of Venice, Mr. and Mrs. LaRue and Myrna of Cypress, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Bunyard.

Other friends called throughout the afternoon, bringing gifts and good wishes for the birthday. Mr. Bunyard came to California with his family in a covered wagon back in 1868, and has lived in this county almost 50 years. He has a wide circle of friends in Southern California.

OHIO VISITOR ENTERTAINS FRIENDS HERE

Mrs. Charles Wallace chose an Easter motif for her lovely luncheon when she came from Los Angeles Tuesday to entertain her Santa Ana friends at Danigers. Places at the table, which was lovely with yellow daffodils in a large center bowl, yellow candles and nut cups with small Easter egg candies, were marked by downy little yellow chicken favors. Fourteen guests were seated there for the luncheon, later dividing into groups for contract bridge and rook.

Guests of Mrs. Wallace yesterday were friends with whom she became acquainted last winter when she came out from her home in Shaker Heights, near Cleveland, Ohio, to spend the winter in Santa Ana.

Board Chosen At Y.W.C.A. Dinner

To look up and see a girl coming through an open door with certain needs and to try to minister to those needs was the interpretation to the Y. W. C. A. program which Mrs. Virginia Judy Esterly, former president of the San Diego chapter and now a teacher at Scripps college, gave Santa Ana Y. W. C. A. members last night at their annual membership dinner.

The needs of this universal girl she pointed out as happiness, training for work, housing, self-esteem, and public respect.

To achieve these things for this girl and to accomplish the new world order which must be established, the Y. W. C. A., she stated, must overcome certain barriers, including status of men and women in business together, racial feeling, status of different types of work for women, and religion, and it is the Y. W. C. A.'s responsibility to face the problems of this changing world.

Seventy-three new members were welcomed into the organization at this meeting, and new directors were elected. Chosen to serve on the board this coming year were the Mesdames Fred Ferrey, Ray Adkinson, S. H. Finley, Dixon Guthrie, J. C. Gardiner, C. F. Smith, Edith Thatcher and M. B. Wellington, and the Messrs. Mary Ford, Genevieve Humiston, Boyd Joplin, Rowena Newcomb, Vanche Plumb, reelected; and the Mesdames George Angne, W. E. Dixon, Clyde Downing, Braden Finch, E. D. Froeschle, Audrey Glines, Clarence Gustlin, H. J. Howard, John McCoy and Walter Spicer, and Miss Katharine Budd, new members. Mrs. John Henderson, Mrs. E. T. McFadden, Mrs. Glenn Tidball, Mrs. Guthrie and Miss Pauline Parsons were named for the nominating committee.

Camp songs by the chorus of Girl Reserves and others, directed by Miss Clara Spelman, were enjoyed by the guests. The winning of the four Tuesday luncheon over by Miss Mabel McFadden, president of the board, Mrs. Cotton Mather, membership chairman, made the report, and Mrs. H. W. Guthrie, education chairman, introduced the speaker.

BIRTHDAY PARTY MONDAY AT KINDERGARTEN

Kindergarten children of John Muir school spent an enjoyable morning on Monday when they all joined in helping Vern Stevens celebrate his sixth birthday.

The children all aided in the preparations, setting the table with the dainties they had made in dainty spring colors and assisting Mrs. L. S. Stevens, Vern's mother, in making the ice cream, cracking the ice for her and turning the crank until the cream was frozen.

When everything was ready, the little boys and girls found their party returning to the table, where rabbits made out of marshmallows watched them consume the ice cream they had made. Candles were lighted on the birthday cake which Mrs. Stevens had made, and all joined in wishing Vern many happy returns to the day.

Today, the children were taken on a visit to the Independent Dairy to see how ice cream is made commercially, enjoying the comparisons with their own efforts on Monday.

After enjoying the homemade variety that day were Vern Stevens and his brother, Carl, his sister, Luella, his mother, Mrs. Stevens, and his teacher, Miss Mary Priscilla Allen, and the members of the class, who included Rachel Elok, Betty Salisbury, Ed Bobbin, Carter Horst, Robert Levin, Jack Maddock, Abel Oviedo, Henry and Bernice Oviedo, Jackie Perrin, Richard Peterson, August Roe, Mary Lee Baker, Beverly Cole, Catherine Moore, Georgia Lu Shapland, Bob Stockton, and Ann Warner.

BETROTHAL OF ORANGE GIRL TOLD AT TEA

A tea given in honor of Miss Sabra Batchelor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Batchelor, of Orange, yesterday afternoon, served a two-fold purpose. It celebrated the nineteenth birthday anniversary and served to announce the engagement of the honored guest.

Her coming marriage to Herb Carroll, San Diego, was announced in red letters on the white icing of the small cakes, with the single word "June." The bride to be and her mother received guests, assisted by Miss Patricia Shirley, Los Angeles.

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. H. H. Frye, Los Angeles, grandmother of Miss Batchelor, and Mrs. Gertrude Parsons, Orange. Flame colored ranunculus were used as a centerpiece for the table, which was covered with the lace cloth used on the occasion of the announcement of the engagement of Mrs. Batchelor more than 20 years ago. The lovely old china service used, was a gift to Mrs. Batchelor's grandmother 75 years ago.

Guests bidden were the Mesdames Roy Buckles, Walter Acherfeld, Grover Hammill, E. Edwards, Frank Hogg, Harvey Lawson, Roy Cavett, M. V. Allen, Maud Hart, J. R. Kenyon, Arthur T. Hobson, R. W. Swenson, J. W. Bomboy, R. W. Hull, Roy Cox, Chris Lopen, Clyde Shope, H. L. Talbert, Gertrude Parsons, Kellar Watson, Jr., Orlene Store, A. A. Harris, E. G. Brick Dust

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor
By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

FOR years and years I've been reading editorials and stories concerning the don't care attitude of everyone toward what our legislature does, but up until now I didn't worry much. I was one of those guys the stories and editorials were about.

But, when our latest crop of lawmakers started convening, this department became interested. In fact, snooped about a bit.

It all started when John Cassidy, big-shot in a state-wide conservation agency, handed over a list of bills to be considered by the senate and assembly. Recently, I printed a number of the senatorial bills which seemed of interest, because they made drastic changes in some of our game laws, but no one cared much.

Except the Lynx Scotsman at Newport Beach. He became somewhat excited, but it's because he sells bait! No—I didn't mean that, either. He's much more interested in game laws, that's why!

He was somewhat upset about one proposal that angling for all game fish should be declared unlawful after sundown. How, my feathered friends, would that affect we surf fishermen? And the folk who like to snatch huge white sea bass from Newport pier when the season's right? It'd put a stop to all of that.

And yet, I'll wager that not one sportsman from Orange county has written to an assemblyman or senator, telling his wishes. If we were as alert as we should be, our legislators at Sacramento would literally be swamped with letters and telegrams. Up there they have bills putting limits on nearly all fish caught in the ocean, including barracuda, of which everyone catches sackfuls. Ten barracuda! Two albacore? There'll be lots of heeling next summer, when state officers arrest violators. (Oh the law's passed, but right now no one cares.)

The same pertains to the county fishing preserve. In a week or so Les Kimmell and Dan Mulhern are going to the capitol to do what they can for the bill, which really will make a paradise for sportsmen along the coast.

Those two, who know what they're doing, should be given the biggest sendoff possible, and all possible support, financial and otherwise, but it's times to nothing they won't get it.

Phooey, says I, on John Voter. Always he screams too late!

George Higgins, one of San Clemente's substantial citizens, pops in for a visit.

George bragged a bit about the new city hall. He mentioned, in a nice way, all the lovely new houses in San Clemente. He hinted that a huge boom is on there in every way, shape and form.

He'd better be careful or they'll make him chamber of commerce secretary!

We should be hearing soon from Dr. Thomas Spencer Miller of Laguna and John Malcom from Newport regarding the proposed state park business at San Juan Hot Springs.

Which strikes me as a fine idea. Those wonderful springs should be utilized, in some way or other—up to now, they've been in use since the days of the Indians.

With proper planning in building up that beautiful site along Ortega highway, we could have a beauty spot that'd draw thousands to this part of the country. Handling of matters which will bring this site before the state park board is in very competent hands, and I think before long we'll have something worth while up in that canyon.

This guy Marshall Steen, who up until now has been spending time in bed, on account of he's been sick, is getting around and about, his family claims.

Marshall has been worrying and worrying for fear he wouldn't be off the fathers before ocean fishing starts. He's even, I hear, been having dreams about sharks and mackerel in his things.

But now, the former bedridden boatman is perching in the sun for an hour or so each day. One of these afternoons I'm going to hide in the bushes and make a noise like a barracuda or a sea bass. He'll break every spring record, and forget all about being incapacitated, in a grand rush for his fish pole!

If you notice a slight lack of news from Midway City and Westminster and Oceanview and so on, it's because of Mrs. Van Steenberg's tooth.

Mrs. Van Steenberg writes things about what's happening in that district, but for the past few days the aforementioned molar has been doing handstands and double back-flips. And who can write stories when such goings-on are going on?

Give us a couple more days and, tooth or no tooth, we'll be back in stride!

'MODEL CITY' PLAN URGED FOR GARDEN GROVE DISTRICT

CHAMBER TO BACK ZONE PROJECT

Committee Is Named To Aid Planners; Public Hearings Slated

GARDEN GROVE.—Visioning Garden Grove as a "Model City," members of the chamber of commerce discussed proposed zoning plans at a meeting here last night.

The zoning setup, prepared by the county planning commission, would eliminate commercial hog-ranching and dairies in a mile-square territory around Garden Grove, with the west line extending beyond Huntington Beach boulevard and to the Santa Ana river on the east.

Areas Outlined

Areas for family residences, business, industrial and group dwellings are outlined in the new plan. Acceptance of the setup by the county board of supervisors is contingent upon action to be taken at two public hearings, dates for which will be set soon. President E. J. Tobias was authorized last night to take immediate steps for calling the hearings.

On a committee to investigate all angles of the zoning plan are C. J. Clark, chairman; R. E. Johnson, H. E. Yockey, C. G. Crosby, P. D. Brady, J. A. Knapp, Vernon King, A. A. Kelly, Jr., Dr. C. C. Violett, E. O. Fulsom, Jack Jentges, H. A. Lake, Robert Smith and W. V. Brady. This group will work with the county planning commission on the huge project.

Park Discussed

L. W. Schauer reported on progress of the park project here, pointing out that the area will be planted to grass with remaining funds, and that a project to install tables, benches and sanitary facilities will be sought immediately. Working with Schauer on the park committee which is to co-operate with the board of supervisors in completing the park, are S. C. Oertly, J. G. Allen, J. F. German and R. E. Johnson.

Supervisor John Mitchell discussed drainage problems affecting the district, explaining that the head is in creating a plan to use sand pits on East Chapman avenue for water-sinking purposes, as well as flood control.

IMPROVE STATE PARK AT S. C.

SAN CLEMENTE.—The new barbecue pit and picnic ground just completed in the state park is attracting attention as it is probably the most complete and elaborate in this part of the state.

It includes a covered cooking pit, serving tables for food and liquid refreshments, meat block and hot water tank all substantially built of rock, concrete and rustic logs. Picnic tables are conveniently located in palm covered ramadas with tile floors and space is provided for a large crowd.

The whole is located in a grass covered niche in the hills and only a few steps from one of the best beaches along the coast. Parking space is available for a hundred or more cars at the beach level eliminating a tiresome climb for those who wish to bathe.

It is expected that this newly opened playground will prove the mecca for large numbers of visitors during the coming summer as its use is open without charge to all who care to visit it.

THE PURPLE ARROW

By MILDRED SNOW GLEASON

Frances Haven, American girl, has been living on an isolated little farm in Denmark with an elderly couple named Jann. They are trying to force her to marry their son, Joe, and keep her virtually a prisoner. With the aid of an unknown person who sends her a note signed only with a crayon drawing of a purple arrow, she escapes to Rumania, where she goes to a little pension in the country near Bucharest.

Ward Peterson, an agent of the Purple Arrow, turns up to watch over her. Also at the pension are Professor Richardson and a young student, Polepsu. Then Joe Jilupp arrives. Shortly afterward Fran receives a scrawled warning that there is a danger. Joe again tries to force her to marry him, threatening her. Then, one evening, Ward is knocked unconscious while walking in the woods. He suspects Polepsu and takes him into the dining room to question him. There he finds the professor writing. Ward, glancing at the handwriting, suddenly accuses him of having sent Fran the scrawled warning.

CHAPTER XXVII

Fran was startled by Ward's words. Polepsu stared from him to the professor curiously. The professor cleared his throat. "You are a very extraordinary young man, Mr. Peterson."

Ward bowed gravely. "Perhaps you will be so kind, sir, as to explain whether you sent this message to Miss Haven in a spirit of fun or in earnest."

"Good," Ward leaned forward, his elbows on the table. "Then what were your reasons for sending this warning in such an unusual fashion?"

"My dear Mr. Peterson," the professor said mildly, "I told you that I had never seen it before."

"But I say you wrote it," Ward insisted stubbornly.

"And I deny it. Do you consider yourself an expert on handwriting?" Mr. Peterson?" the professor asked sarcastically.

"Not an expert, but I know quite a lot about it."

"Then, may I ask why you think I wrote this extraordinary warning?"

"You may. The small t's and s's in this disguised scrawl are similar to yours. They are quite distinctive."

"I see." The professor smiled. "But it happens, Mr. Peterson, that that way of making a t and an s is very common in Europe, and I learned to write over here—my parents, though American, were living in Italy at the time I reached school age, and I went to school there and was taught the European style of writing in

This is Fascinating Needlework

Household Arts by Alice Brooks

Thread Your Needle with Wool for These Simple Stitches

PATTERN 5805

No "cat nap" for this sly Puss—she's wide awake, and eager to see whether you select her for picture or pillow. Either one sets off her roly-poly beauty to perfection, just as a bit of woolly yarn or angora will make her seem wonderfully lifelike. A "beginner" will find this motif amazingly easy, and quick-to-do and a bit of handwork she'll be proud to show. In pattern 5805 you will find a transfer pattern of a cat 9 1/4 x 12 3/4 inches; a color chart and key; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches used.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Journal, Household Arts Dept., 117 E. Fifth St. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

Magician of the Air

YOU'VE read about the old Hindu rope trick. The one where a magician tosses a rope into the air, and a boy climbs it and vanishes into thin space. No one has ever explained how it's done. But one theory is that the magician hypnotizes his spectators.

We thought of the rope trick as we listened to President Roosevelt talk on the supreme court last night in his fireside chat over radio. The President was the magician—and his audience, instead of being a few ragged Indians and marveling tourists, was the citizenry of our nation.

His voice and clear language left the impression of sincerity and friendliness.

His logic swayed the reason and enthralled the intellect.

One can't imagine a Landon, a Hoover or even an Al Smith handling oratory in that way.

You must go back to Henry Clay and Daniel Webster to find speeches with such a power for changing the course of a whole nation. And where those early patriots talked to hundreds, or at the most thousands, F. D. R. spoke to millions in the quiet of their own homes over the softly throbbing loudspeaker.

The master politician, or statesman if you will, of this age was speaking to his people—to the 25,000,000 who voted for him and the 10,000,000 who voted against him last November.

And as his magnetic oratory rolled out of the radio, we thought of the strange magic of personality which influences humanity everywhere and of the New Deal rope trick of packing the supreme court.

Chicago physician says there are about 140,000 hairs on a blonde's head. Or about 130,000 if some angry wife catches her flirting with hubby.

Asking Too Much From U. S.

ALTHOUGH we are ready to shed tears over the plight of those 160,000 families who are delinquent in their Home Owners Loan corporation debts, we draw the line at endorsing the Copeland bill to grant a mortgage moratorium and lower interest rates to these same delinquents.

What about the 840,000 families who have paid up Home Owners Loan corporation to the cent? What's fair for one is fair for all. They are entitled to a rebate if the government is going to get lenient.

Then, too, there's a danger involved. If home owners can get out of their legitimate debts to Uncle Sam, what about the banks and the farmers?

Once these borrowing groups dodge their federal debts, the federal taxpayers—many of whom can't buy farms, banks or homes of their own—will be left holding the sack with billions in worthless notes.

Without being a bit hard-boiled about the HOLC delinquents, we believe we can safely say that folks who won't or who obviously can't pay the generous terms of the government loans had better go back to renting. The government is not called upon to keep them rent-free at the expense of the neighbors.

Chain-smoking is harmful, says a physician. We won't try it, then, but how do you get the darn things lit?

Getting Along With People

IF YOU always duck when you see a certain person coming, it may not be because you owe him money or because he has one of those horrible things mentioned in the ads. Maybe he's just a fault-finder.

And all of us run from criticism. In his book, "How to Make Friends," Dale Carnegie tells this story of Charles Schwab, the man who worked up from a puddler to a multi-millionaire steel chief.

One day Schwab came upon a group of his men smoking right under a "Positively no smoking" sign.

The big man sauntered up, reached in his pocket and handed each of the men a fine Havana.

"Boys," he said, "I wish you'd smoke those on me—outside."

Schwab knew how to put a coat of sugar on every pill. He used finesse in dealing with people. That's one reason why he tops in industry today.

Pretty Bear is the name of an Indian tribe beauty contest winner. Sounds like the strip tease influence.

What Does the Other Man Think?

REMLOW HARRIS, the San Gabriel artist-poet who pens those unusual western legends for the Five Star Weekly, turns philosopher for a moment and tells us this:

"You never know what the public really thinks about your work until you listen to them criticize it when they don't know you are around."

Tuning in on conversation at galleries where he has exhibited, Harris has learned a lot about what the public wants. Some of the things he thought were important don't amount to much—and some of the "unimportant items" loom up big.

There's an idea in Harris' discovery that a lot of folks could use.

Judges should cooperate and give those drivers who speed to save time about 10 days.

Three That Shouldn't Mix

EASTER week won't be such a headache at Newport-Balboa this year if the state board of equalization and police make good their threat to stop liquor dealers from peddling booze to the college boys and girls who annually visit the peninsula for a whoopee session.

Boys will be boys; girls will be girls; and liquor is the same old destroyer of manners and morals it's always been.

But since you can't change boys and girls, keeping liquor out of the picture may help.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

One of the free after midnight shows along Fifth and Madison avenues and the Thirty-fourth street shopping zone is the window decorator doing his stuff. An empty space in a few short hours becomes magically a work of art. A vista that will halt thousands.

There are times when his wizardry will incite a sudden burst of applause from the sidewalk of temperament. Any hoodlum audience. Also there are bursts hoots and down will come the curtain to shut off the view. Most great windows are redecorated twice a week.

Last night I saw what first appeared a raffish pile of jumble slowly metamorphose into the artistic miracle of a jungle lake with flamingoes in flight. Against the breathless background of a luminous sky with a thin scimitar of moon in gloomy crescent.

The success of a mid-town establishment depends much on the catchiness of window arrays. A number of the decorators rate as high as $50,000 a year. They have their private staffs, private secretaries. And they go on scouting trips for new ideas.

An ambitious young pianist from Louisiana giving his first recital at Town hall ended a flash arpeggio with a blue note. But instead of displaying his confusion in a flutter, he walked calmly to the footlights and explained: "I just washed my hands and cannot do a thing with them." And for his trigger touch he got a noisy salvo of hand claps. And two page one puffs.

It is reported that Henry L. Mencken paid his first visit to a New York night club recently. A garish place with a Moorish garbed sultan from Harlem as the floor opener. The Baltimore writer is said to have looked about a few moments with an especial gaze for the beautiful cigarette girl. When he finished he got away in a jiffy. He seemed unimpressed. Mencken and Nathan incidentally are pally again after a long drawn-out tiff over nothing in particular.

Cafe owners call them the Look Around Boys. In their dinner jackets they pop in at the dining hour, look around the room to see if they know anyone who might invite them to the table for a drink. After wangling a few drinks there is the off chance of being invited to remain for dinner and to dance, for they are devious dancers.

And there are those vicarious and deflowered ladies with a son in boarding school, whose eyes of Hiram tears so engagingly. Keptes who have had long tough sledding since steel dipped below 100. But they are trickling back into circulation and are out cafeing again, talking to interior decorators, looking for Florida and Egypt and where not. Things are on the up and up. Definitely.

A syndicated writer learns much of the geographic temperament through his mail. I was thinking today that the most whole-souled, friendly letters I receive come from Arkansas and Oklahoma. And so many epistles from these states are so marvelously erudite essays. One today from an up the holler hamlet discussed the clowning of the first grave digger in Hamlet and the tenderness of Hamlet and the ineffable sadness of an old rocking horse when a mother, whose child has met tragedy, comes upon it in an attic long afterward.

An such musing chivied out speculation as to what is the best remedy—not necessarily the most interesting—town in America. I choose Salem, Mass. I arrived there on a gloowering day of heavy skies and went through the original "House of Seven Gables" and in the dusk I received from lightning, visited gloomy Gallows hill where so many were hanged for witchcraft. And we had refreshments at a candle-sputtering tea room whose proprietress in black dress might have well taken part in the fabulous Salem witch trials. It was all so spooky we hurried to the cheer of the Boston Ritz.

Lois Long's story of the Broadway lover whose sweetheart passed away. He was inconsolable as they retired from the morning funeral. His pals tried to console. One soothed: "Time heals. Perhaps in six months you will meet some one else." Through his tears he blubbered: "But what will I do this evening?" (Copyright, 1937)

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—As Roosevelt turns more and more heat on the senate to obtain approval of his supreme court reform, the position of the liberals becomes like that of the victims of the Spanish inquisition. They are in great pain, but religious fervor comes first. Actually, their convictions are almost identical with Roosevelt's. They believe categorically that the supreme court should be curbed. They differ only in the method of approach.

Roosevelt's scheme, they claim, is all right when he is in power, but not if a Warren Gamaliel Harding should be elected. They don't want to open the door for any president—whether a Roosevelt or a Harding—to have his way with the judiciary.

What makes the liberals increasingly unhappy is to look around and see such hard-boiled reactionaries as Millard Tydings of Maryland, Josiah Bailey of North Carolina, and George of Georgia rejoicing at their stand. This, for them, is a crushing blow. Various reasons inspire the opposition. Some claim to be motivated by the same high and lofty purpose—that of preventing any president, no matter who he is, from getting too much power. But they have their personal prejudices besides.

LIBERAL ROLL-CALL

Here is the roll-call of the outstanding liberals, with their personal reasons for opposing the President's judiciary reform: Senator Hiram Johnson has been irked of late over the way the White House has been falling over itself to appoint any and every Democrat—some of them very mediocre—whom the other California senator, William Gibbs McDowell, has recommended. Also Johnson resents the administration's secret sabotaging of his law barring U. S. loans to war debt defaulters. The recent $3,600,000 credit of the Export-Import Bank to Italy, undoubtedly an indirect violation of the Johnson act, has embittered him. Although Italy defaulted on her debts, he has seen Roosevelt rush forward to lend that country money.

Senator Borah, at heart, is no real foe of the courts. Also, despite his refusal to support Landon last year, he is, and always will be, an old-fashioned Republican partisan. During 31 years in public life Borah has never jumped the GOP traces. He always talks about doing it, but when it comes to the crucial test, he hews to the party line.

Senator Burt Wheeler of Montana, like Johnson, has been offended at the type of appointments made by Roosevelt in his state. He waged a bitter behind-the-scenes fight several years ago to prevent the appointment of a federal judge in Montana recommended by ex-National Committeeman Bruce Kremer.

Kremer is now one of the biggest lawyer-lobbyists in Washington, sits at the right hand of Attorney General Cummings, frequently dines at the White House despite his big corporation connections. Wheeler fears that if the supreme court reform goes through, Kremer will have a lot to say about selection of the new judges, not only for the supreme court but for the circuit courts.

Deep down in his heart, Wheeler considers Roosevelt much of an opportunist, and his court scheme an instance of this trait.

Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming, another able and hard-working Democrat, secretly is piqued at the administration's indifference to his federal incorporation bill. This act, designed to increase the power of congress to deal with labor, industry and agriculture, O'Mahoney believes would obviate the packing of the courts.

Although he dislikes the Roosevelt plan, O'Mahoney is likely to vote for it rather than see the reactionaries win.

Senator Nye of North Dakota is a militant liberal, but subject to occasional outbreaks of GOP partisanship. He kept out of last year's presidential fight because he was secretly for the New Deal, but in the closing weeks of the campaign permitted the disclosure of some munitions committee testimony regarding Elliott Roosevelt which savored of Republican propaganda.

Like O'Mahoney, Nye is no last-ditch foe of the President's proposal, and in the end may be found voting for it.

DISAPPOINTED

Several hours before the President made his Victory dinner speech, a report spread through political circles that certain Democratic senators planned to stage a dramatic walk-out on him if he assailed the courts.

Newsman and others who had heard the rumor were on edge throughout Roosevelt's searing attack on the judiciary. But nothing happened.

Virginia's Senator Harry F. Byrd, a bitter foe of the President's plan, sat red-faced and embarrassed directly in front of him. Other opponents were scattered nearby. But while they obviously did not like the presidential blast, they sat through the barrage without moving.

As Roosevelt was leaving the banquet hall, a friend told him of the reported plan. He laughed heartily, remarked: "I would have loved to have had someone 'take a walk' on me tonight. That would have been something."

MERRY-GO-ROUND

On his 750-acre farm near Washington, Supreme Court Justice Van Devanter raises purebred Hampshire hogs. Attendants of the house of representatives say that of the five feminine members of congress, Mrs. Rogers of Massachusetts, Republican, is the most regular in attendance. Next in regularity is Mrs. O'Day of New York, Democrat. . . . Side by side on the roll of the House are the names of Congressman Kniffin of Ohio and Congressman Knutson of Minnesota. Kniffin, Democrat, insists that the "K" is silent, as in knife. But Knutson, Republican, insists that his "K" should be sounded. (Copyright, 1937)

What Other Editors Say

COIN 'RACKET'

Every now and then congress in its wisdom orders the coinage of a special issue of half dollars, commemorating some anniversary or other. In recent years this has created a very pleasant little racket for the dealers in rare coins. Now President Roosevelt has asked that the practice be ended.

Last year, for example, 21 special issues were minted. One of the issues commemorated—of all things under the heavens—the fiftieth anniversary of Cincinnati, O., as a music center. Coin dealers are now quoting a price of $47 for a set of three of these coins minted in Denver, Philadelphia and San Francisco.

To the ordinary citizen a half dollar is a half dollar. The old familiar article suits him just as well as any other. Why congress should go out of its way to make a continuing field day for the coin dealers is more than a little hard to understand. It is to be hoped that the President succeeds in squelching the game.

Howdy, folks! There is no truth to the rumor that the Congressional Record will run several comic strips. The Congressional Record is funny enough the way it is, unbiased observers believe.

At that, the Congressional Record might increase its circulation among the flappers of the nation by printing the life story of Clark Gable or Robert Taylor.

HANDY HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Don't throw away the old crankcase oil drained from your automobile. It has a hundred household uses. For instance—One drop makes false teeth snap into place easier. Preserves the surface and adds a polish to bald heads.

One drop in each nostril stops snoring. Keeps peanut butter from sticking to the roof of the mouth. A small amount on the cat's tail allows it to slip smoothly through the baby's hands.

Three drops enables the Adam's apple to slide up and down easily.

Post No Bills.

Following the duel between Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr, the latter made a trip to Europe, where among the other affronts he endured was one at the hands of Talleyrand, who was a much-sought-after man, and the newspapers of the time tried to interview him. One French writer gained access to his room and started questioning him. Thinking to gain Burr's favor, the writer asked: "Was Hamilton a gentleman?" Burr looked at him angrily, but maintaining an even voice, replied: "Sir, I met him."

When I asked Bill Mention if this was open season on concert attorneys he only offered a half smile, and said he hoped not. We have people in this country who insist we elect men to office who will enforce the law, and then we have another kind who do not want the law enforced. We have so much liberty it's unappreciated.

George Robert Monyer has sent me a book about "Indian Picture Writings in Southern California," and where to find them. What good would that be? I couldn't read them. I did find them, but it was nice of George to give me the information which by the way it has taken him a long time to collect.

I had a romance with oil once. Slice salesman put me in a hole and the Good Lord, who looks after the credulous and unsophisticated, pulled me out. He has traveled in China, Arabia, Australia and Egypt, delving into archeological mysteries. I remember one time a geologist told me that oil was unusually found where there had been fish, and I got the ones on top of the ground, but Matier clarified that opinion, although he thought you could have both. If you are interested in oil and how to find it, talk with Matier. I'm going to. I have a piece of land on which clam shells have been sleeping for several thousand years. One Man's Opinion

By X-REPORTER

"Miss Perkins has one daughter."

The statement is a little confusing, to say the least. Mr. Fixit, oracular genius on one of my favorite newspapers, gave the answer to one of his question-asking readers.

It dazed me a little bit, for I had thought of the secretary of labor as a spinster who had devoted her life, through choice, to the worthy task of looking after the welfare of humanity.

But no. "Miss Frances Perkins" was only her professional name. She had been—or is—married. And she has one daughter.

Always I am loath to write rules for the other fellow. For don't I have a hard enough time living up to the few simple rules I make for my own conduct?

But I do wish we could arrive at some method of designating the ladies in a way that would insure against any such startling declaration as that quoted above.

I remember seeing a news photo a few years ago which bore the caption: "Miss Gloria Swanson entertains four of her ex-husbands at tea!"

There were no offspring photographed with Miss Swanson, and I don't know to this day whether the Swanson family name will be perpetuated by any of Miss Gloria's children.

The Lucy Stone league once worked out a theory that a woman who prized her own personal name above that of her husband could wear her own title. Use of the husband's name by his wife is still demanded by the courts and on legal papers, I believe.

The Russians, I'm told, use the simple method of adding a syllable to the maiden name of a woman at her marriage, thus denoting the fact that she is married, but giving no hint at all of who the lucky husband may be.

Perhaps we'll have to come to something of the kind—what with emancipation of the modern woman, equality of the sexes, and all that sort of thing.

When a "Miss Frances Perkins" is married we would merely call her "Mrs. Frances Perkins" and let the husband either speak up or shut up. That would save the awkward phrasing, "Miss Perkins has one daughter."

According to Paul Armstrong, general manager for the California Fruit Growers Exchange, it won't be long now. He says valencia shipments should begin about mid-April. So you ranchers who have been estimating the frost damage will get your answer soon and will be able to compare your figures with the actual result. Armstrong says the estimate on frost damage has been changing from week to week, but the packing houses will also catch up with it. And there isn't any use to worry about the final figures. You can't change them then. It will be too late, but you can get ready for next year.

And if the weather from here on is favorable to the growing of oranges I am sure the ranchers will appreciate it. It will help them to forget what they have passed through.

In order to improve his health, Ed Guard is basking in the violet rays of Palm Springs, that desert resort made famous by cinema stars, shorts, night caps and sandstems. Instead of the Bedouin tent you will see the trailer, and some other evidence of the modern, but also the palaces of the Hollywood motion picture actors who seek rest and recreation where the sand dunes cast their shadows, and Amos and Andy also talk about Violet rays and other troubles. Ed, aged wisely and hiked to the health-giving desert to put an early crimp in a threatening pulmonary affection.

And while Chief of Police Floyd Howard is taking after the traffic violators I hope he includes those one-eyed cars. The public seeks more light on a dark subject—the subject being cockeyed automobiles blinking one eye at you.

Why not a halitosis club? If you cannot associate with those who do not have it, there shouldn't be any objection to an association with those who do. We need a few more million clubs, anyway. Membership would be in self defense. There would at least be an air of exclusiveness about it. I organized a club of somewhat different dimensions once, and it proved to be so popular it had to be reorganized in order to get rid of some of the members. That won't happen to the halitosis society.

Traffic accidents up to date compared with last year is a tie. Thirteen on each side. They can be reduced if you drive carefully. Observe the traffic regulations, and quit mixing gasoline and alcohol, the latter suggestion to those whom it may concern.
